Chamberlain Doubts Latest Peace Effort Will Be Successful

By WALLACE CARROLL
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Nov. 9—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today reiterated Britain's intention "Not to lay down her arms" until she has been assured that "Europe has been freed from the threats which long have paralyzed the life of her peoples."

In a speech read for him at the Lord Mayor's luncheon at Mansion House by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, the prime minister left little doubt that the peace effort by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold would fail in view of Britain's distrust of Germany, on which he laid the responsibility for the war.

Today's War Analysis

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
British United Press Cable Editor

REVOLVER shots at Sarajevo and a shattering time bomb at Munich—the Sarajevo assassination touched off the World War; Europe wondered today if the attempt to assassinate Hitler will turn this state of war into one of full fury.

Events have shaped that way in the last few days, bringing closer the moment when the world will know whether it is to be a knock-down and drag-out fight or a long campaign of wearing down the enemy.

Within those few days, Germany started by putting pressure on the all-important neutrals, Holland and Belgium. They were warned ominously that they must resist the British blockade which is choking off neutral supplies from Germany.

At the same time, the Germans concentrated troops within striking distance of the Dutch border, in the Oldenburg - Bremen region of northwestern Germany, a considerable distance from the west front.

Paris estimates Germany has about 500,000 seasoned troops in the Oldenburg-Bremen region, with plenty of reserves available back of the western front which could be swung quickly into position.

Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold, thoroughly alarmed, made an offer to negotiate peace which they must have known was doom-

INTERNAL NAZI WOES BLAMED FOR EXPLOSION

Germany's Alliance With Russia Gets French Airing

ROME, Nov. 9.—King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini today sent congratulations to Adolf Hitler for his escape in the Munich explosion.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 9.—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands sent a message of congratulation to Adolf Hitler on his escape from assassination.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—French diplomatic circles today interpreted the attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler at Munich as indicating a split in the Nazi party over Germany's alliance with Soviet Russia.

One opinion reflected in the French press was that anti-Soviet elements attempted to kill Hitler to gain control of the party.

Diplomatic sources said last night's blast was likely to have widespread diplomatic and military repercussions and might possibly push Hitler into a sudden move.

The newspaper Intransigeant said the incident showed that "the Gestapo (secret police), backbone of the regime, has either failed of its duty or itself participated in the plot."

Hugo headlines stressing Adolf Hitler's escape and blacktype emphasis placed on the fact the bomb exploded only 15 minutes after he left the famous beer hall made editorial comment virtually unnecessary.

The Star's headline read: "Fifteen minutes saved fuehrer," while the Evening News poster cried: "Hitler just missed it."

The Nazi attempt to blame the British secret service was countered here with a suggestion in some quarters that the alleged attempt on Hitler's life might have been faked by the Nazis themselves in an attempt to rally the nation at the fuehrer's side, in a manner similar to that in which the party gained absolute power through the burning of the Reichstag in 1933.

Roy Honored

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The University of Paris today conferred an honorary degree on Philippe Roy, former Canadian minister to France.

Simon read Chamberlain's speech because the prime minister was confined to his bedroom with an attack of gout.

In his speech the prime minister wrote that "the war would never have come if, on the side of the German government, there had been the same genuine desire for peace as there was here."

He then derided the "stiff-necked men to whom Germany has handed over the guidance of her destinies."

FORCIBLE ATTAINMENT

"Events have shown," he said, "that they would be satisfied with nothing less than repetition of forcible attainment of their desires, which they had unsuccessfully tried before."

Chamberlain said that since the start of hostilities, the position of the Allies has strengthened while that of Germany has deteriorated, and he insisted that repeal of the American arms embargo had contributed greatly to the stronger position of the Allies.

Britain, the prime minister said, is not hopeful of a satisfactory response from Fuehrer Adolf Hitler to the Belgian-Netherlands peace appeal, but will consult the Domin-

ARMED SHIPS ARE ALLOWED IN U.S. PORTS

Defensive Armaments On Merchantmen Are Not Under Ban

By ANDRUE BERDING
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The administration has decided not to close United States ports to armed merchantmen of the belligerents provided the arms carried are for defensive purposes only.

Last Saturday President Roosevelt, invoking powers granted by the new neutrality act, barred belligerent submarines from U.S. ports and territorial waters, but did not bring into play similar powers relating to merchantmen. The administration's policy toward armed merchantmen therefore will be the following:

A belligerent merchantman is not a warship if it is armed defensively, international law sanctions this view.

A merchantman is armed defensively if:

1—It carries no more than four six-inch guns.

2—The guns are mounted in the stern.

3—There has been no strengthening of the lateral decks.

4—There are no circumstances to indicate the ship has been acting as a raider.

FRENCH WAIT FOR SIGN OF GERMAN DRIVE

Sharp Encounters Are Reported Along Western Front

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The French war ministry today reported increased activity on the whole western front and sharp encounters with German forces, especially between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

The French were watching closely for a sign that Adolf Hitler might be contemplating co-ordinated attacks on the western front and against the allies through the Netherlands and perhaps Belgium.

(German officials have denied planning any drive through the neutral lowland countries, but observers in those nations have expressed concern over Nazi troop concentrations on their borders.)

RENEWAL OF INITIATIVE

Military experts pointed to a renewal of German initiative after more than two weeks of stalemate in most parts of the Saar sector and reported that more German troops were massing on the Netherlands frontier.

This morning's war communique said there was "increased activity during the night on the front as a whole" and reported local scouting operations and "sharp encounters" on the northern flank, between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

British Press Features Munich Bombing

LONDON, Nov. 9—The Munich bombing was feature in the British press today with greater prominence than any story since the declaration of war.

Huge headlines stressing Adolf Hitler's escape and blacktype emphasis placed on the fact the bomb exploded only 15 minutes after he left the famous beer hall made editorial comment virtually unnecessary.

The Star's headline read: "Fifteen minutes saved fuehrer," while the Evening News poster cried: "Hitler just missed it."

The Nazi attempt to blame the British secret service was countered here with a suggestion in some quarters that the alleged attempt on Hitler's life might have been faked by the Nazis themselves in an attempt to rally the nation at the fuehrer's side, in a manner similar to that in which the party gained absolute power through the burning of the Reichstag in 1933.

Three Billion Dollars Likely For U.S. Defence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—United States war department estimates being studied by President Roosevelt were reported reliably today to call for equipment for an army of 1,000,000 men.

If Mr. Roosevelt approves, Congress may be asked at the January session to appropriate $3,000,000,000 or more for national defence, nearly double the record sum voted this year for the army and navy.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 9—Reports reaching here from Germany today said former Crown Prince Wilhelm has been under "house arrest" at his Cecilienhof estate near Potsdam for the past two weeks. GERMAN PLANE IS SHOT DOWN IN NORTH SEA

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9.—One German aircraft was destroyed and another crippled in a dog fight with Royal Air Force planes of the coastal command far out over the North Sea, the Air Ministry announced last night.

While patrolling the sea lanes for submarines, two R.A.F. planes spotted a formation of three German aircraft apparently engaged in reconnaissance work.

In the serial fight that followed one German plane was seen to crash on the water and sink. A second fell, partially out of control, but its precise fate was unknown. The third got away because the British gunners ran out of ammunition.

The Air Ministry also announced a British plane failed to arrive home after a reconnaissance flight over northwest Germany yesterday. This was the 21st flight of its kind over Germany since the war started.

SONG PARODIES MAKE HOSPITAL HOURS CHEERY

Although he has been a patient in the Royal Alex hospital for the past ten months, J. Moss is not downhearted. Instead he puts in the hospital hours writing parodies of well known songs, to be sung by the men of today's Canadian Active Service Force.

Parodies on "Tipperary", "When We've Wound Up the Watch On the Rhine" and a well known old English comic song "Oh, Mr. Porter, What A Silly Girl Am I", have already been sent in to radio station CFRN for use in the medley sing-song of the Soldiers' Hut, and the versatile writer promises still more if they are needed.

Hitler Escapes In Beer Hall Blast

BERLIN, Nov. 9—Adolf Hitler, safe behind the walls of his new chancellery in Berlin, today viewed photographs of the first officially disclosed serious attempt to kill him since he assumed power in 1933.

Meanwhile the police combed the nation for perpetrators of last night's explosion in the Munich Buergerbrau cellar which would have buried Hitler under nine feet of debris had he not left the "beer hall" putsch anniversary observance earlier than expected.

The blast in the Buergerbrau Hall, a shrine of Nazidom, came a few minutes after Hitler had left to entrain for Berlin and killed seven of his veteran followers and wounded 63 others, 29 of them seriously.

The British secret service and Jews were charged with the attempt on Hitler's life, but officials said so far there was no trace of persons directly responsible for what "must have been a long and carefully planned attempt."

The original reward of 500,000 marks for information leading to seizure of the guilty was increased today to 600,000 marks ($240,000) by an anonymous additional offer of 100,000 marks ($40,000).

None of the high Nazi officials who accompanied Hitler to Munich for the annual celebration were reported among the killed or injured.

(Rumors were heard in Amsterdam that Rudolf Hess, deputy Nazi party leader was among those killed, by this could not be confirmed. The report was printed in some London newspapers.)

Hitler himself was safe aboard a special armored train at the time, heading toward Berlin after an address which was regarded generally as preparation for his people to face a prolonged conflict.

He returned to the Berlin chancellery about 4 a.m. (9 p.m. M.S.T. Wednesday) aboard his special train, which left Munich 20 minutes after he finished speaking.

NAZI POLICE OFFER $120,000 FOR CULPRIT

BERLIN, Nov. 9. — Heinrich Himmler, head of all German police forces, tonight offered 300,000 marks ($120,000) in foreign exchange to anyone abroad providing information leading to the arrest of the persons who tried to kill Adolf Hitler in yesterday's Munich beer cellar explosion.

The reward would be paid at any German consulate in the United States, or anywhere else. The reward is in addition to the 600,000 marks ($240,000) already offered for apprehension of the guilty persons inside Germany.

NAZI SECRET POLICE HUNT FOR BOMBERS

Many Suspects and Criminals Are Detained For Questioning

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—The German secret police today began a great roundup of suspects in the bombing that wrecked the shrine of Nazism only 10 minutes after Adolf Hitler and other high party leaders had left it last night.

"It may be assumed that many suspects and criminals have been detained for questioning," an authorized source said.

Observers believed the Gestapo would bring in all persons whose past political activities have caused suspicion, as well as all known criminals who might have been in the vicinity of Munich.

ONLY A MIRACLE

An official statement said it was "only a miracle" that Hitler and other high Nazi leaders escaped.

The secret police under Heinrich Himmler, has set up a special commission to direct the investigation.

Hitler was safe in his Berlin chancellery today. Guards there were strengthened and every visitor there was searched.

"Mountains of telegrams," as one attache put it, poured into the chancellery, congratulating the fuehrer on his escape. There were messages from many rulers and foreign officials, including King Carol of Rumania, King Victor Emanuel and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. Many flowers were sent to the chancellery.

Officials said Hitler carried through his usual daily program, including conferences with his second in command, Hermann Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim Ribbentrop.

Alexander Kirk, American charge d'affaires, was among the

Canada To Supply Ammunition, Boats In First War Order

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—Aircraft, anti-submarine boats, ammunition and gun barrels will form the basis of initial orders to be placed in Canada by the British supply board, Lieut.-Col. J. H. M. Greenly, controller-general, told The Canadian Press yesterday.

Col. Greenly was not in a position to estimate volume of business these orders would bring, but said it would be heavy. Creation of the British supply board was announced Tuesday in London and Ottawa, to co-ordinate buying in Both Canada and United States.

Relayed radio advices, received here from the Cape Sable (N.S.) station, said that the submarine had "disappeared" after the chase, and it was assumed that the freighter was proceeding unmolested.

Earlier, tropical radio had reported receipt of another message from the same station, reading:

Winston Churchill Given Praise For His Work As Admiralty Head

LONDON, Nov. 9—The Daily Express today expressed regret at the announcement "The government does not propose to hold an inquiry to assign the blame to individuals responsible" for the loss of the battleship Royal Oak.

"These men should be found," the newspaper said. "Their names should be read out in parliament. The men who betrayed their trust, and whose carelessness drowned 800 gallant sailors must be brought to justice.

"In this war there are rewards for the faithful, and there must be punishment for the guilty. That principle must be accepted.

RENEWS CONFIDENCE

"If mistakes have been made, Mr. Churchill is the man to put them right. His statement renews our confidence in his administration."

The Daily Telegraph described Mr. Churchill's Commons statement as a "Heartening survey."

"Mr. Churchill is not of that easy temperament which shrinks the light of hazards or visualizes victory by blinking at obstacles and pitfalls which lie in the way," the newspaper said.

The Daily Mail said:

"The story told by Mr. Churchill and Lord Chatfield was not wholly adequate defences, undue risk. Who was responsible? Not Mr. Churchill, who has the First Lord and the Admiralty only since the war. Indeed Sir Roger Keyes (Admiral of the Fleet)advised says correctly that if Mr. Churchill had been in office a few months earlier there would have been no question of unpreparedness.

SERVES NO PURPOSE

"This handsome tribute to the present First Lord also implies censure on his predecessors. Neither can the sea lords escape the blame. They, as technical heads of the Admiralty, bear a large share."

The News Chronicle said "in the circumstances the country will be prepared to regard this episode as closed, and to concur with Mr. Churchill's view that no useful purpose would be served by effort to allocate blame."

ed. It served the purpose, though, of calling attention to their dangerous position.

Both Britain and Germany indicated their firm rejection of the proposals although Britain made a gesture of consulting France and the dominions. The implication is that Britain might be willing to talk—emphatically not with Hitler but with a German government prepared to meet the allied terms in good faith.

Hitler's speech at Munich last night blasted any such possibility. It was a speech calculated to stir up the German people and prepare them for a smashing war, for Hitler cannot succeed, except for a war of duration. The fuehrer said he had instructed Goering to be prepared for a war of five years.

Ten minutes after Hitler and all the high Nazis who accompanied him had left the beer cellar shrine, the deadly explosion occurred.

It could not have been better timed to rouse the German people to the highest pitch of fighting determination, ready to die on the battlefield or suffer privation in a long war of blockade.

The German press leaped into action and began its bitter denunciations almost before the smoke had cleared from the ruins in Munich.

The Communists were blamed for the Reichstag fire; the entire Jewish people for the assassination of an undercreetary of the German embassy in Paris; now England is the deep-dyed villain, with the Jews mentioned only in the background.

At once the whisper started in England and France that the outrage was engineered by the Nazis themselves to whip up the people to the proper fever heat. The whisper made capital of the fact that Hitler and all the big Nazis were safely away before the explosion occurred.

The insinuation aroused bitter indignation in Germany.

mission a month ago, will be deputy controller-general.

Col. Greenly said he was convinced Canada had sufficient potential resources to provide all Great Britain's war requirements but not without extraordinary industrial expansion.

AVOID OVERLAPPING

The policy of the board, it is understood, will be to place orders in United States and Canada in a way that will avoid overlapping, having regard to abilities of the firms in each country to fill orders. Materials which would entail heavy capital expenditures and much delay to produce in Canada will be bought in United States.

In view of subs antial purchases to be made in United States, an office, with Arthur B. Purvis, prominent Montreal industrialist, as director-general, will be set up in that country, probably in New York.

It is not anticipated there will be any volume production of aircraft engines in Canada but the fuselages will be constructed here in large numbers. Motors will be imported either from the United States or England.

ANTI-SUB CRAFT

Shipyards are expected to get substantial orders for a type of anti-submarine craft known in Great Britain as the "whale catcher," steel vessels about 90 feet long, powered either by steam or Diesel engines. These craft will be armed and will operate in depth charges to fight submarines. They will be speedy but not in the class of the mosquito fleet of shallow draft, fast motor boats which, it is understood, will also be made here.

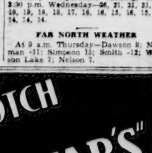

Police Believe Bullet Wounds Inflicted By Boys

MINNEDOSA, Man., Nov. 9.—Police investigating the death of John McBride, 66, whose body was found in the Minnedosa river Tuesday with three bullet wounds in the head, were told yesterday by two boys that they had shot several times at a floating object which they thought was a bittern.

McBride had been missing since Sept. 20 when he left Minnedosa to walk 11 miles to his home after attending a rodeo in this town "60 miles northwest of Winnipeg. After hearing the boys' story, police advanced the theory that McBride died accidentally and that the bullet wounds inflicted by the boys unwittingly about Oct. 1.

The inquest has been adjourned to Nov. 13.

SWISS TRIAL OF SCHUPBACH IS UNDERWAY

Former Alberta Resident and Wife Are Facing Murder Charges

BIEL, Switzerland, Nov. 9—A story of a marital brutality, plotting and murder was disclosed Wednesday at the opening of the trial of Ernest Schupbach and his wife for a series of crimes committed in Switzerland and Alberta.

Among other crimes, Schupbach is accused of beating his 11-year-old stepson, Maurice Nicolet, so badly the child died on a lonely farm at Bay Tree in Alberta's Peace River country.

REFUSES DOFF CAP

Schupbach refused to take off his cap in accordance with courtroom regulations. A police sergeant finally had to grab it from his head.

Mrs. Schupbach is accused of the murder of her first husband, Paul Nicolet, in crime which Schupbach is alleged to have concealed for his own profit.

The jury was composed of eight men and a woman. First day of yesterday's opening session was devoted to formal reading of the long charges against the pair.

The murder of Mrs. Schupbach's first husband was discovered when Mrs. Schupbach returned to Canada, where they went in 1935 on savings of about 16,000. Swiss frafics [about $4,000] from Mrs. Schupbach's first marriage.

DESCRIBE BOY'S DEATH

A detailed description was given the court of Schupbach's attack on the stepson on the farm. He allegedly beat the child to death, then with the assistance of his wife, hid the body and informed police the youngster had disappeared.

A few weeks later the couple dug up the body and threw it into the lake. After Schupbach was convicted and confessed Canadian police found the body, half-devoured by animals.

Variety Show

cinemas, no inns and no social life of any kind.

One battalion of guards has set a good example by putting up a variety show of their own and last night I had a free seat at this performance. It was in a big room once used as a cement factory where they rigged up a stage with curtains made out of old blankets fastened to wooden beams. It was as cold as an ice well but laughter warmed us up.

COLONEL LEADS IN SINGING

When it started stumbling across the darkness of a yard ankle deep in mud the hall was crowded by the battalion and on the stage the colonel—an old friend of mine whom I remember as a subaltern—was leading a glee club who were doing very well under his direction.

The compere of the show was the regimental sergeant major with a big mustache and the chest of Hercules. What that S.-M. did during the performance would not be believed by old soldiers to whom an S.-M. was a man of terror. This one was a humorist of great quality who sang to us and danced for us and kept the whole thing going with a roar.

His language was lurid at times. His skits on officers and men were without reticence, but as a comic actor he had a natural genius which was irresistible, and his own audience sat next to me laughed quietly and incressingly.

It was easy to see that this S.-M. could do anything with his men. They would follow him to the death as they followed him in a roar of choruses—"It's a Long, Long Trail," "Pack Up Your Troubles" and old guardsmen's songs which every one knew. The orchestra was chiefly provided by a young guardsman who played an accordion with a real talent which went as far as a Chopin melody and a Spanish rhumba.

COCKNEY HIT OF EVENING

One of the hits of the evening was provided by a cockney humorist who recited a piece called "Them Days Have Gone." Any music hall would have welcomed his turn. Then there was a drunken guardsman who moved unintentionally by his sentimental ballads sung in a deep baritone which came from the right place.

Some of the entertainment was fairly crude but these men out in the wilderness of a desolate country side do not get a line of breastworks and pill boxes gave a great evening's entertainment to their comrades and are shaping into a first rate company of amateur players.

The idea ought to be adopted by other battalions who are in a similar need of this kind of thing to brighten up the darkness of war time nights.

King Talks Long With Labor Head

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The King yesterday talked for 45 minutes with William Holmes, new chairman of the Trades Union Congress. "It was just a man-to-man talk with a modern king who is keenly interested in industrial problems and in our work," Holmes said after the meeting, in which they discussed workers' wartime problems and other questions.

Polish Guerrillas Carry On Warfare Against Germans

CERNAUTI, Polish - Rumanian Frontier, Nov. 9—Regular Polish army detachments are carrying on guerrilla operations in at least four districts of Poland now under German or Russian control, according to Polish refugees who reached the border today.

A body of German troops under a captain was reported to have been wiped out in a clash with guerrillas in the Swietokrzyskie mountains 10 days ago.

ADOLF HITLER ESCAPES BLAST IN BEER HALL

clues but strictest secrecy was maintained and nothing was said officially.

BRITISH BLAMED

Official German sources unqualifiedly blamed the explosion on British agents and declared it was provoked by Jews.

"There is no doubt that the English secret service has a hand in this affair," newspapers of yesterday quoted Zweolf Uhr Blatt, first German newspaper to report the explosion.

It promised an investigation "with German thoroughness" and destruction of Germany's enemies.

"The British secret service and Jews' were responsible, declared Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung official organ of DNB, Germany news agency.

Witnesses of the explosion said it was so violent that a hand grenade or amateurish infernal machine could not have caused it.

The beer hall—probably one of the most strictly watched spots in Munich for days and no explanation was offered how a foreigner or conspirator could have entered.

SAFE TRAIN

The train that brought the fuehrer here after the impromptu annual address in which he warned that Germany would "speak the language which England understands" was said to be one of the safest trains ever built.

Technical experts said its padded coaches and bullet-proof windows could withstand the force of a mine exploded on the tracks.

"We thank Providence for sparing the fuehrer," an early morning commentator broadcast.

FANATIC HATE

"But he is moved by fanatic hate for the perpetrators of this outrage. Enemies will learn what it means to lay hands on Adolf Hitler."

Officials charged with the security of the fuehrer's person had the scare of their lives and the energy with which they plunged into the hunt was shown by the reward offered for information—300,000 marks (about $200,000).

A semi-official statement said clues indicate the plot originated "abroad" and it was expected, therefore, that Germany's borders would be watched carefully for evidence of intrigue.

LAUNCH SPY HUNT

The supposed clues were not disclosed. But there were signs that the Gestapo, the Nazi secret police, and the Schutzstaffel, Hitler's blackshirted elite guard, were launching a spy hunt and a drive to wipe out enemies of the Nazi regime in politics and the war.

DNB charged that an attempt was made on Hitler's life "because it was learned that through the act Germany would be struck in the heart."

"Who are thes murderers?" it asked. "We do not yet know the individuals or how they prepared the deed. But one thing we know—gold pieces, capable of such detestable notions, are agents of the secret service.

"And behind them stand war agitators into whose ears Jews are whispering."

"If anything could have strengthened our will for victory or made us more faithful to the Fuehrer, it is this attempt to murder Adolf Hitler.

NO HALF MEASURES

"But England will learn to know us better. We will not be satisfied with half measures—that is the oath given at the bier of these dead.

"The German nation enters truly well prepared into the fight which now starts. If, up to now, we have shown consideration toward state enemies it should be clear that beginning today they will be treated so they are unable to threaten the life and security of National Socialists (Nazis) any more.

EVERYTHING AT STAKE

"In the future we will deal differently with Jews, who become criminals for English gold. Let England be informed we are keeping an eye on the enemy. We know after this action that everything is at stake."

Zweolf Uhr Blatt commented that the fuehrer was especially faced by men refusing to submit to their criminal aims or blood-thirsty policy of suppressions, assassinations which have been staged or mysterious accidents have happened."

HITLER UNHARMED

It was said repeatedly here that Hitler was unharmed and that he was also at the Munich-bound train before the blast wrecked the famous beer hall.

With him at the celebration of the 1923 beer hall putsch were Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbel, Deputy Party Leader Rudolf Hess, Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, Julius Streicher, Robert Ley and Sister Pica—the only women who was among Hitler's early battlers. Several admirals and generals also had been invited.

All, however, were said either to have left with him or shortly after he started for the railroad station at the conclusion of his speech.

In the confusion at least one time were mostly obscure Nazi oldtimers who followed Hitler in the unsuccessful 1923 putsch. Many of these were said to have been supervisors on German highway building projects.

They had remained after cheering the Fuehrer on his way and still were discussing his address when the explosion that Germany was prepared to fight a five-year war.

The blast came from above, indicating the possibility either that explosives had been hidden in the ceiling or smuggled to a room above.

CAUGHT UNAWARE

Either there was a miscalculation of some minutes in preparing a timing device for the explosives, or Hitler's decision to leave ahead of schedule caught the plotters unaware.

He probably owed his escape, it was said, to his abrupt departure because of the press of state business instead of remaining to chat with the veterans as had been his custom.

The interior of the hall was wrecked, tables were strewn about and the Nazi comrades thrown to the floor under the tiles of wreckage.

TERRIFIC CHARGE

An administrator of the Buergerbrau Hall said it was a "terrific charge" and the proprietor added that it came "without any preliminary sound or other warning," causing the ceiling to fall "with a terrific roar."

Munich was thrown into turmoil and cut off from telephone communication with the rest of the country for several hours, until the situation was fairly well in hand.

BRITAIN NOT HOPEFUL FOR PEACE APPEAL

ions and France regarding the offer.

Then the speech continued: "No doubt you have all read the communication which has been addressed by their Majesties the Queen of Holland and the King of the Belgians to His Majesty the King, as well as to the President of the French Republic and to the German chancellor.

"Everyone will appreciate the lofty motives which have actuated the two sovereigns in thus offering their good offices in the hope of avoiding further extension of the war.

NOT VERY HOPEFUL

"I confess I am not very hopeful of a satisfactory response from the German Chancellor in view of past experience. Nevertheless we do not want to continue the war a day longer than is necessary if a satisfactory settlement can be obtained in another way.

"In due course it will be the duty of His Majesty's government to tender to His Majesty our advice as to the nature of the reply he should make, but before we can do so it will naturally be necessary for us to consult the Dominions and our friends and allies, who are standing shoulder to shoulder with us in the struggle."

The speech referred to "this strangest of wars" and added it was not known when the present static warfare would be changed into violent conflict. But since the outbreak of war, the moral position of the Allies had strengthened rather than deteriorated.

The speech listed the Anglo-French-Turkish treaty as a "powerful instrument for the peace of southeastern Europe." Set against this was the Russian-German agreement which "has gained indeed great advantages for the Soviet but has brought only humiliation and loss for Germany."

DOORS REOPENED

"Repeal of the Neutrality Act in the U.S.A." he said, "reopens for the allies the doors of the greatest storehouse of supplies in the world."

"We know that we cannot fail," he concluded. "And I publish in this firm conviction that we shall live to see the foundation laid of a new world in which freedom and humanity will have superseded oppression and the rule of force."

GODBOUT SAYS 3 PRINCIPLES GUIDE QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Nov. 9.— The "three great principles" which Quebec's new Liberal government intends to follow in its administration of provincial affairs are "rigid economy, perfect co-ordination and practical efficacy," Premier Adelard Godbout said last night.

Speaking over a provincial network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the premier also introduced" with short biographies the 13 members of his cabinet who took the oath of office a few hours before.

The "severe economy," however, would not be practicted to the "detriment of the best interests of the province," said the premier whose party won an overwhelming victory Oct. 25 in the province's general election.

FRY ELECTED THIRD TERM. CITY'S MAYOR

council will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the council chamber, Civic Block. Usually the first meeting would be on Saturday but this is a holiday, Remembrance Day.

Dates of regular meetings of council will be set at Monday's meeting and a nominating committee will be appointed to propose appointments to standing committees and representatives on civic boards.

Mayor Fry expressed gratification at his election, which was conceded by Mr. Barnes in less than an hour after the polls closer at 7:30 p.m. He is the 29th man to hold this position in Edmonton. Election of the Citizens' Committee aldermanic candidates was conceded before 8 p.m.

"I am deeply appreciative of the support accorded me by the citizens of Edmonton," the mayor said. "It shows, I believe, the satisfaction of the people with the business administration of civic affairs carried out by the council during the past two years.

NATIONAL EFFORT

"The vote also indicates the displeasure of the electors with people who raise petty issues at a time like this when we are bending all our energies in the great national effort called for by the strife in which the British Empire finds itself overseas."

"Naturally I am glad to congratulate all the elected candidates and to wish them well," Mr. Barnes said. "I am convinced that the campaign we have just had will prove to be a valuable one, and that it proved to the citizens of Edmonton do desire open discussion of civic problems."

Mayor Fry's vote showed a majority of 7,053 votes over that accorded Mr. Barnes, the vote proportion being four and one-quarter to one. He received 85 per cent. of all the votes cast.

Last year he was elected with a total vote of 12,491, having a majority of 5,504 over his lister opponent and a plurality of 6,569 over ex-Mayor Clarke, who received 5,922. Ex-Ald. Charles Guild received 4,307 votes and F. J. Speed 198 in that election.

In 1937 Mayor Fry also defeated ex-Mayor Clarke by 3,147 votes, receiving 10,487 votes against Mr. Clarke's 7,340.

BIG LEAD

In South Edmonton, where both Mayor Fry and Mr. Barnes reside, the mayor received 2,682 votes against 483 for Barnes. On the North Side he received 6,464 against 1,687, and in the advance poll 26 against 5.

Mr. Barnes led in only two polls, at Calder, with 121 to 112, and in North Edmonton with 109 to 77 votes.

Mayor Fry, now elected for his third term, is 62 years of age and previously held a seat on city council for five years. Mr. Barnes, aged 64, has been a member of the legislature since 1935, and held a seat on the Edmonton Public School Board for 24 years before that. He unsuccessfully sought election as mayor in 1917.

This year's total vote of 11,470, including spoiled ballots, the lowest in years, showed that just 20.7 per cent. of the 55,338 electors used their franchise. Last year 23.509 or 43.8 per cent. of the 53,827 electors voted.

RECORD IN 1936

In 1937 the total vote was 24,038 or 47 per cent., while in 1936 the vote reached an all-time peak of 29,050, which was 87.8 per cent. In 1935, due to bad weather, just 19,984 people voted and in 1934 the vote was 27,683.

Ald. Campbell, who headed the polls in his re-election Wednesday, was first elected to council two years ago and at that time placed fourth. Standing of the newly re-elected councillors in the 1937 election was as follows: Brown, 12,677; Gray, 12,552; Campbell, 11,709; Knott, 11,655. Ald. A. Blair Paterson at that time was elected for one year with 10,980 votes.

THEIR SERVICE

Members of the 1939-40 council and the number of years they have already served on this body are: Brown, 2; Cassidman, 17 (on school board); Grout, 2; Campbell, -2; Knott, 8 (mayor, 3 years); Hugh John Macdonald, 4; S. B. Parsons, 1; J. H. Ogilvie, 3; Paterson, 2; M. B. McColl, 1.

New members of the Edmonton School Board, all elected by acclamation, are Romeo Bouchard, Hugh Currie, H. D. Tighe, K. C. and W. J. Wilde (South Side).

Continuing members of this board are A. J. Crowe, James O'Hara (South Side), and J. O. Pilon.

NAZI SECRET POLICE HUNT FOR BOMBERS

many foreign diplomats who called at the chancellery during the day and signed the guestbook. He did not see Hitler.

The official revised list of the dead follows:

Michael Wilhelm Kaiser, 50, merchant; captain in Nazi motor corps and holder of the so-called "blood order" given to participants in the 1923 putsch.

Franz Lutz, 53, holder of the "blood order" and member of the original company of brown storm troops.

Emil Kasberger, 54, local Nazi official in Munich.

Eugen Setzachia, 32, oldest member of the Nazi motor propaganda unit.

Wilhelm Weber, 37, radio speaker in travelling propaganda unit.

Leonhard Reindl, 57, office clerk.

Maria Henle, 30, cashier in the beer cellar.

The official list of the injured totalled 63. Some of them were in critical condition.

Questioned about arrests, officials said the number or nature could not be divulged "for legal and political reasons."

They denied vehemently a report broadcast this morning by the French radio station at Strasbourg that the Gestapo had planned the explosion in order to kill off some radical members of the Nazi party.

"We can only describe the story as criminal," a spokesman said. "The fact that Strasbourg described the report as emanating from shrine in ruins.

FINLAND MAY BE FORCED TO CAPITULATION

Maintenance Of Army Is Disrupting Country's Economic Life

MOSCOW, Nov. 9—Russian officials wound up their three-day celebration of the Communist revolution's 22nd anniversary and were expected to resume negotiations today with the Finnish delegation, which was ready with new instructions from Helsingfors.

Diplomatic quarters said there was considerable basis for hope agreement might soon be reached on the Russia demands for territorial concessions from the little republic for Baltic military bases.

One observer pointed out Russia might bring Finland to terms without force, merely maintaining on the Finnish border the vast number of Soviet troops which has been there for the last several days.

This source said the presence of the Soviet troops had forced Finland to mobilize with the result her economic life has been disrupted.

Continuation of the present situation for only a few months, he added, might impoverish Finland, a relatively poor country.

Amsterdam by way of Berlin, we are regarded as next to the Netherlands' flag and honor."

DIPLOMATIC REGRETS

It was understood that several diplomats had visited the chancellory this morning to express regrets at the bombing and convey congratulations to Hitler for his escape. In many cases they didn't see Hitler, but merely signed their names in the guest book.

A crowd of several hundred stood in a drizzling rain outside the chancellory, but Hitler did not appear.

He had reached the chancellory at 10:30 a.m. after an an all-night train ride from Munich. He had been spared the sight of the explosion that brought down the ceiling on a screaming mass of men and women who had been helping him celebrate the 16th anniversary of his beer hall "putsch". The force of the explosion had even torn out and destroyed some of the heavy ceiling beams and left the Nazi

Crerar Gets Realistic Demonstration of Modern Warfare In England

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Canada's minister of mines and resources, Hon. T. A. Crerar, was given a realistic demonstration of modern warfare Wednesday, Together with other Dominions ministers in England for the imperial discussions with the British cabinet, Mr. Crerar visited a famous army training centre in the south of England.

Standing on a hill with Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, and Air Commodore L. S. Breadner, air adviser to Mr. Crerar, the Canadian cabinet minister watched a platoon of kilted men of a famous Highland regiment advancing across a wind-swept heatherland while three guns spat death at targets 300 yards away and planes roared overhead.

DEMONSTRATION "REAL"

The crowning thrill came when the Bren gun carriers hurtled over hummocks and through a stream, bringing reinforcements of infantry theoretically needed. So real was the demonstration that a few men representing casualties were left huddled on the wet ground as the Bren gun machines swung into view.

The party later saw Vickers guns in action, shooting visible bullets against a hillside. Some ricocheted so much they looked like skyrockets shooting into the air. A gas attack alarm was given and the troops quickly donned masks but kept on firing.

Picturesque figures in the company were Sir Zafrullah Khan, head of the Indian delegation, and his secretary. Each wore a maroon fez, and Sir Zafrullah wore a pair of rubber boots for getting over the muddy terrain.

"GRAND HOTEL" BARRACKS

The party inspected the most up-to-date barracks in all England, reminiscent of a swanky Canadian private school. An officer whispered to the Canadian Press reporter that it was "unsuitable—they call it 'Grand Hotel'." He explained it took 40 charwomen to keep the passages clean.

The visitors also witnessed examples of the all-round physical and technical training given members of the medical corps. This was due, it was explained, to the need that these men be fit for duties in connection with stretcher-bearing, and caring for casualties under any conditions.

General McNaughton To Inspect Garrison—Brig. Pearkes Coming

Inspection of Edmonton units included in the 1st Division will be carried out Friday by Major General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the division, it was announced Thursday by Lieut. Col. E. Brown, M.M., Garrison Commandant.

Three Garrison units are in the 1st Division. Inspection by Maj. Gen. McNaughton of the 92nd and 111th Batteries, R.C.A., will be carried out at 10:30 a.m. and that of the Edmonton Regiment at 2:30 p.m.

The Divisional Commander will be met here Friday evening. He will have lunch with officers of the Garrison, Brig. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., officer commanding Military District No. 13 and commander of the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Division will accompany Maj. Gen. McNaughton.

The Garrison has decided to assist the Y.M.C.A. in raising $2,000 which will enable improvements to service at the "Y" swimming pool. The pool is placed at the disposal of the troops and a certain number of men are detailed for attendance at it each day for swimming. The Garrison will raise $1,000 of the amount aimed at and each man will contribute 25 cents a month for two months and by this means the amount is expected to be raised.

GUN TRAINING

Wednesday afternoon training was carried out inside the Prince of Wales Armory. A, B and C Companies of the Edmonton Regiment carried on with Bren gun training, while C and D Companies were given rifle drill. There were 30 men from C Company and the pioneer platoon of Headquarters Company were given gun training.

Lieut.-Col. R. A. Wyman, who has been acting Garrison Commandant in the absence at Ottawa of Col. Brown is carrying on with co-ordinated training of the four artillery batteries.

MAY FLY HERE

It is expected the two distinguished officers will arrive here by airplane Friday morning, but definite word on this is being awaited by the Garrison Commandant.

A rehearsal for the inspection was held Wednesday on Kingsway between 101 street and the point where 111 avenue intersects this thoroughfare. Weather permitting Friday, the inspection will take place there. If weather is unfavorable, inspection will be carried out at the Prince of Wales armory.

Ten guns were on view on Kingsway during the rehearsal. Of these, four were 4.5 howitzers and six were 18-pound field guns.

Major J. H. Ross, district recruiting officer, Military District 13, was in the city Wednesday enlisting French Canadians for the Royal 22nd. Regiment in Quebec. The French Canadian regiment will be in the Third Infantry Brigade, First Division. From this province men will only be recruited at Edmonton. They will then be sent to Quebec to join the regiment.

LEAGUE HITS NEW SUCCESS WITH BALLET

Crowded House Applauds Dancers In Garrison Benefit Show

Ballet, fascinating and intriguing and an art form that has attracted some of the greatest composers of contemporary times, returned to the Empire theatre Wednesday night when the Junior Hospital League presented The American Ballet Caravan.

A crowded and enthusiastic house greeted the ballet and the warmth of the reception must have gladdened alike the hearts of the company and the ladies of the Junior Hospital League who had worked unremittingly for the success of the venture.

As profits of the event are to be turned over to the Edmonton Garrison entertainment board, the soldiers are in a fair way to receiving no little benefit.

IN THREE PARTS

The three parts to the ballet tingled with the romance and tempo of present-day life, although in two cases the period was in the past. Thus, in the ballet there was a blending of the old and new—the old world ideas and incidents, set with fast-moving forceful choreography.

The three divisions in which the entertainment was divided, were Filling Station, a ballet-cartoon in one act with music by Virgil Thomson; Billy the Kid, a character-ballet in one act, with music by Aaron Copland; and Chrade or The Dubuisnke, with music based on American melodies and arranged by Orde Pittmann, the musical director of the ballet.

Filling station was a fast-moving ballet and as the title suggests, deals with incidents at a gasoline station. The attendants, tourists looking for information and a gangster among others make their appearance and many amusing scenes were interpreted by the dance. Fred Daniell as Mac carried the main burden in this ballet.

HITS HIGH SPOTS

Billy the Kid t...ched several high spots and gave Michael Kidd as Billy ample scope for display of his talents, while in the ensemble work all members were given opportunities. Old world scenes were depicted in vivid fashion.

Delightful, charming and gracefully-conceived was Chrade, a ballet romance in one act. Here was a combination of comedy and romance, backed with telling stage pictures and unusually fine dancing.

Throughout Marie Jeanne, premiere danseuse, Harold Christensen, Todd Bolender and others acquitted themselves with unusual distinction, while the company as a whole proved itself versatile and highly talented.

Lew Christensen as ballet-master merits warm praise for his work in staging a series of splendid stories in dance.

Musical accompaniments were provided by the two piano team of Trude Rittman and Pablo Miguel.

Success of this venture sees one more achievement recorded to the credit of the Junior Hospital League.—J. O.

Where and When?

Though invited by the Prime Minister to do so, Hon. Dr. Manion has not yet cited the instances of which he said "information came to him" that political favoritism had been shown in the letting of contracts and the making of appointments connected with the carrying on of the war program. He has not overlooked the invitation, for he continues to assert in general terms that such complaints are reaching him, and threatens to bring the matter up in parliament.

Perhaps this is a good way to keep the political truce and rally Canadians of all political stripes to the national effort, but the helpfulness is difficult to see. And these are matters of very much more urgent importance at present than anybody's gain or loss of political prestige.

Dr. Manion has said either too much or too little. He should back up his assertions by citing instances, and so set the machinery of investigation in motion and prevent recurrence of the alleged offences. That would seem to be the fair thing to do; fair to the country, to himself, to the Government, to the war effort, and—by no means least—to the party that has honored him with its leadership.

Who's Road?

United States members of the international commission have decided that the British Columbia-Alaska highway is a "worthy and feasible project," involving the construction of about 1,000 miles of new road in Canada and perhaps 275 miles in Alaska.

For the time they favor route A, running from Vancouver to Hazelton, Atlin, Whitehorse and Dawson to Fairbanks. But they admit a shorter route can be found 120 miles east of this line; presumably by way of Prince George, and utilizing the old Cariboo Trail from that point south.

Albertans will hope this alternative route may be finally selected. For the reason that it could be more easily tapped by westward extensions of Alberta's highway system, thus giving tourist and other traffic to and from this province direct highway connection with the coastal cities and also with northern British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska.

The commissioners also suggest that "if the United States is to finance in whole or in part" the construction of the Canadian section it should have some jurisdiction and supervision over the road. That is a point at which, if this is insisted upon, the proposed highway cannot be made another "Polish corridor".

If the road is built it will have to be a Canadian road, under undivided and unquestioned Canadian authority so far as it traverses Canadian territory, whatever method of financing has to be employed to build it.

Fuel Control

The coal and coke industry in Canada is to be put under license, in order that regulations can be enforced which will assure consumers a full and continuous supply of fuel at fair prices. This is a further step in the application of measures to prevent profiteering, and to maintain normal conditions of trade despite the disturbing factors incidental to war-time.

It does not follow necessarily that the coal and coke men have been gouging. If safeguards are to be established a beginning had to be made somewhere, and control measures extended to one industry after another in order of their importance or where conditions seem most likely to create disruption of trade and price inequalities.

In the Canadian climate, fuel is in winter time as vital as food. Since coal resources are located at both ends of the Dominion and lacking in the middle, the trade is peculiarly liable to interruption. Should supplies fail anywhere, suffering is a matter of hours, and anything like a prolonged regional coal famine would spell death to people in some parts of the country.

To omit regulating coal, or postpone it while regulating sugar and other less essential commodities, would be dealing with minor requirements first. And one thing the people of Canada have made very plain, through their parliament and otherwise; there must be regulation of supplies and prices in respect to the necessities of life.

What is now being done in the matter of fuel may be expected to be done in the case of other commodities as time passes and control machinery is set up.

Hitler Bars the Way

Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold are assured of an earnest examination of their truce proposal, alike by the Allied Governments and by the Nazis. Neither contestant wants to fight. There is no enthusiasm for the war on either side. Hitler and his associates are scheming, wriggling and threatening to keep what they have grabbed and hold power to go on grabbing. The Allies are fighting for their national lives and the right, for themselves and all other peoples, to live in security and peace.

The Fuehrer, if he did not inspire the proposal to call off the war, has the strongest of reasons to hope something may come of it. The Allies would be only too happy to end the business if security could be gained without more and broader scale fighting. The offer of their services as mediators entitles Netherlands' Queen and Belgium's King to the thanks of mankind, and their proposal to frank and full consideration.

But that the move can bring peace there is no visible reason to hope. Herr Hitler has put himself outside the ranks of those with whom it is possible to make binding bargains. The man has lied so notoriously that his word is nowhere counted of any value. The sponsors of the peace proposals themselves would not stake the safety of their countries on any pledge of his. Neither will the Allies.

If Hitler is willing that peace should be restored, his course is plain. The first condition is for him to step down and out, taking his gangsters with him, and let the German people nominate some persons to negotiate for them in whose honesty confidence can be placed. That he contemplates doing this, there is no reason to suppose. "Rule or ruin" is evidently his motto.

It is to destroy Hitlerism, not to destroy Germany, the Allies have taken arms. They can know no such thing as security until this is done. Law cannot make truce with lawlessness and live.

Editorial Notes

An Oslo newspaper says if the Nobel peace prize is awarded this year it will go to President Roosevelt. He deserves it. The war-makers unwittingly concede that by the abuse they hurl at him.

Polish destroyers, which escaped when the country was over-run, are now fighting with British naval units in the North Sea. They are symbols of Polish nationality, submerged but not destroyed; like the Belgian troops which held a small corner of their country through the four years of the former war. Belgium, the Fuehrer can hardly forget, "came back."

The Passing Show

By MAX FREEDMAN

That noise you may hear from the United States is not Senator Borah growling in angry remorse at the lifting of the embargo. It is the uproar of the 1,700 convicts at Kansas State Penitentiary who have finally been forbidden to wear their cherished silk undies. They went on strike once to keep this privilege but lost, and, like all unsuccessful rebels, they now have to pay the penalty for their rashness. Worse than that, Warden Amrine has stepped prisoners breaking dishes, ended gambling, and ordered no more nine o'clock snacks to be served. He probably couldn't win a popularity contest at the jail.

CONVICTS CUT CAPERS

Some of the prisoners really liked the jail. They were making money out of it by the art of graceful blackmail. The penitentiary runs a coal mine, and all coal in excess of what the convict must mine for the state, he is allowed to sell for seventy-five cents a ton. Some of the more spirited men, however, struck a profit out of the general misfortune. They bought up their comrades' coal in advance—for fifty cents a ton, and made fifty per cent profit by selling it themselves. This golden age has faded into dim memory since the warden banished the practice as alien to the jail's dignity.

One day six convicts suddenly blossomed out into nature lovers and set up a garden club of their own in the prison yard. For weeks on end the men fussed about with flowers and rabbits to the intense amusement of the guards. It turned out they were digging a tunnel under the wall to escape, using the clean fresh dirt for the flowers to hide the dirt they were carting away from the tunnel, sight of which would have spoiled their precious little scheme.

The warden began to hear furtive tales of a tunnel and the spectacular flight to safety to which it was to lead. But no one could find the clue to the mystery until a conspirator lost his nerve and exposed the garden club as a fraudulent organization of spurious nature-lovers. Warden Amrine used their flowers to decorate his office!

Yesterday I heard a strange argument in which youth spoke with the wisdom usually associated with old age. A lad was trying to solve the Sphinx's secret, answer the question that has haunted the ages with its challenge and to which no man has ever been able to give more than a tentative and shadowy reply.

AN ARGUMENT OVERHEARD

He wanted to know if anyone would like to live life over again, after having felt its heart-aches and sorrows, or whether one glimpse of life's pageantry and pathos was enough for the average mortal. The young philosopher did not want to see the curtain rise again on the human comedy. The older man, less timorous, was willing to try his luck once more in the lottery of life, on condition, though, that he was born anew with all the experience and vision he had gathered on his first pilgrimage.

Old age, I thought, had blundered into a clumsy choice. No one would have the gift of life on his terms, since it turned a grand adventure into a prosaic commonplace. What is it which alone gives meaning and richness and color to life? Uncertainty, the lure of the distant horizon, the thousand risks which chance may bring, the caprice of fate and the moods of fortune. Reduce life to an exact science and you make it as horrid as a proposition in Euclid.

Speaking quite frankly, I doubt if any of us, no matter how reluctant we are to die, would ever consent to be born again, if we had any say in the matter. The old familiar faces would all have gone. The husband would be without his wife and children, just as the lover could call up from the wells of memory only the ghost of a remembered kiss, and its fragrance would sting as a mockery amidst the strange companions he would forever meet upon the highway of life. His friends of yesteryear would be gone, never more to return. Former raptures would turn to present pain, the delights of memory become a curse, and the more one recalled the happiness of a vanished past the more unbearable existence would be in the alien future. Man is meant to sojourn upon earth but once and not to be a lonely pilgrim through eternity.

There is, however, a variant to this theme which may detain us for a moment. What would some of the great men of the past say if they could visit our world? What would heroic Mazzini say if he came back to Italy and found that the heir to his liberalism was despotic Mussolini? What would Lenin, who fought to establish a dictatorship of the proletariat, say to Stalin who fights to maintain his dictatorship over the proletariat? What would Luther say to a Germany that has forgotten Goethe in order to embrace Goering? One can hear their comment. It is just, merciless, devastating. Measured by the standards set up by the choicest spirits, this age seems a raucous inanity, worthy of the sulphurous contempt Carlyle would have poured upon it.

THE REAL QUESTION

I suppose everyone has his own favorite period of history in which he would like to dwell. For me that age would be eighteenth century England, when the habits of graceful repose and serene culture had not yet been broken up by the rough voices of the modern era, with its speed, its arrogance, and its essential vulgarity. What would one not give to hear Johnson or Burke or Goldsmith, to listen to the eloquent prattle of Walpole, and correct the cruel sanity of Swift by remembering that humanity could not quite be lost if it still produced a Chatham or an Addison I was almost, though not quite, ready to become a second Bozzy, "and act as a sort of doormat for my hero" if only the rolling gait of Dr. Johnson could come in sight. Did not Thackeray confess he would gladly consent to be a boot-black if thus he could hold converse with the bard of Avon while brightening his boots to the sparkle of his immortal speech?

But there I go again. I started out to talk about life in the future, and here I am again burdening my shoulders with the corpse of the past. It's great fun to be a misfit.

A "Quiet" War?

Certain people talk about this being a "quiet" war. It is foolish talk. Thoughtless.

Said a member of the French High Command last week:

"We are conducting this war not with economy but with avarice, so far as lives are concerned."

He had in mind, no doubt, certain figures recalled this week by the New York Times. In February, 1915, the French attacked in Champagne. In a month of fighting they gained a mile on a limited front. They lost 240,000 men, killed, wounded and missing. In February, 1916, the Germans attacked Verdun. In August and continuing until December the French counter-attacked. At the end of the battle the Germans had not taken Verdun, but they had lost about 278,000 men, the French even more than that. Other major attacks, such as the Somme and the Chemin des Dames, proved equally costly.

So perhaps a "quiet" war is just a sane war—merely the right feeling of the Allied High Command that it should be frugal with the lives of the young men on whom civilization's continuity depends. If that be so, if victory can be won later on with the price of shells instead of with the price of human lives, then, by all means, let the "quiet" policy go on. —Ottawa Journal.

Industry and War

It is common knowledge that during recent years the major heavy industries of this country, which are so vital to the nation as the fighting services, have undergone a thorough transformation in organization and productive facilities. Many examples have been provided lately by these industries in showing what they can do by way of high outputs when the necessity for these arises, and although rearmament has been pushed forward in the past two years, the full resources of British industry have not yet been utilized. There is therefore adequate elasticity for expanded effort which gives a sound basis for confidence in the ability of British industry to see the country successfully through the war. Shipbuilding and the associated industries supplying the Royal Navy and the mercantile marine put their house in order some years ago, and their position today is in striking contrast to the circumstances of 1914. There is greater co-operation than has ever been known in the history of shipbuilding, which will go far to make the maximum use of the industry's resources. Another favorable factor is that practically all the work on the stocks in the shipyards is of immediate use, whereas in 1914 there were many vessels under construction which had to be finished off in order to provide accommodation for laying down essential tonnage.—Glasgow Herald.

One hundred years ago today (Nov. 9, 1839) Bishop Strachan returned to Toronto from his visit to England, where, in Lambeth Palace, he had been consecrated as the first bishop of the Church of England in Upper Canada, he later told Toronto as his see, as was natural. It happened to be a Saturday and the countryfolk were in town for the market, so that they shared with the citizens in what was really a community welcome home to the bishop. Gone, for the day at least, were the political rancors; the sufferings and complaints of the poor "rebels" languishing in the jail were drowned by the blare of bands and the ringing of market bells.

SEEING THE BOYS AGAIN

Daily we met, in our walks about Jerusalem, handsome, olive-skinned lads who recalled to us the Boy who once lived in this land; and, whose first visit to this city kept Him so enthralled that He missed the home-going company. He must have been as fair to look upon, and as heart-warming, as the most beautiful of the boys we met.

Surely this experience should quicken in us the resolution to see Jesus in every boy we encounter. Did He not say, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me?"

Small wonder that Jerusalem abounds in orphanages and schools. Still a multitude of little children labor long hours in the bazaars; and small boys by the score work as hamals, carrying burdens fit only for strong men.

Stir our hearts, O Father, of us all, to a new concern for the welfare of the boys whom Jesus loves. May they all be trained into His likeness. Amen.

Read Matthew 19:13-15.

Sam: "No, he's out giving an anaesthetic."
Visitor: "What a big word for a little boy! Have you any idea what it means?"
"Yes, it means at least ten dollars."

Office Boy: "I came back to see if you were still in business."

The farmer's wife very kindly told me I was welcome to a hot bath if I wanted one, so I went back to the tent and got my trowel and sponge.—Weekly Paper.

Apparently a bath was wanted—rather urgently.

The benevolent old man was trying to instil the spirit of ambition in an obviously unenthusiastic office boy. "My boy," he said, "do you know the secret of success in life?" "No, I don't," the lad replied frankly. "But I'll bet there's a catch in it—like all the rest of them things. I'll lay you a hundred to eight it's something to do with hard work!"

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

The French artichoke, which is the immature bud of a plant of the thistle family, offers a very pleasant change. The size of this edible bud varies from 2 or 3 inches in diameter in ordinary market varieties.

The edible part of the vegetable consists of the fleshy portion at the base of the bud scales. The green scales of the bud are sometimes tinged with blue, brown or violet.

In North America the artichoke is generally prepared by steaming or boiling. Even though it is sometimes impossible to obtain the fresh artichoke in some of the colder climates, this vegetable may still be enjoyed by using the canned product. The smaller artichokes are selected for canning, after the inedible parts have been discarded. Whether canned or fresh, this vegetable is very wholesome.

The correct method of eating the whole artichoke is more confusing to the novice than eating asparagus. The proper way to eat it is to hold the upper portion of the artichoke with the left hand, and then with the fingers of the right hand, to pluck off an outer leaf. The thick part of the leaf at the bottom is then dipped into butter and slowly drawn between the teeth, leaving the soft edible part in the mouth. The remainder of the leaf is discarded.

After all the outer leaves have been removed, the bottom will remain. The fuzzy part should be thrown away, and the very tender base may be seasoned with butter and eaten with a fork.

Following are some methods of preparing this vegetable:

In a cooking vessel with a tightly fitted lid, place the artichokes stem down in about 2 inches of water. Boil until a fork will easily penetrate the base. Remove from the fire and place the artichokes upside down to drain before serving. Serve with butter.

Use the cold artichokes which have been steamed or use the canned variety. In the canned ones the outer leaves will have been discarded, leaving the artichoke hearts, but in those cooked at home it is first necessary to take off these outer leaves. Chop up the hearts and mix with equal amounts of grated carrots, finely shredded lettuce, and tomato pulp. You may secure the tomato pulp either by removing it from the shell of the fresh tomato, or by using the canned tomatoes. Add a small amount of olive oil as a dressing and serve on individual plates. Or, if you are using the fresh tomatoes, fill the shells with this mixture and serve each stuffed tomato on an individual plate.

A young candidate for the Navy was being put through a general knowledge test by a Board of Admirals.

"What kind of animals eat grass?" one of them asked.

The candidate fidgeted and stared out of the window, but said nothing. The question was repeated, but he still remained dumb.

"Surely," said one of the examiners, kindly, "you can answer a simple question like that? I will repeat it. What kind of animals eat grass?"

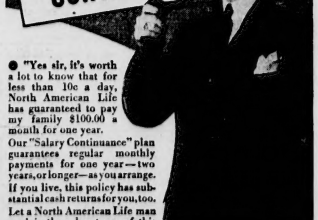

"Animals!" gasped the boy. "I thought you said 'Admirals'!"

BERWYN

Music Enthusiasts At Berwyn Plan to Sponsor Festival

Music enthusiasts at Berwyn have organized a group to sponsor a musical festival at Berwyn next summer. Long one of northern Alberta's most outstanding musical centres, Berwyn has captured major honors at the Peace River festival for several years. The group hopes to be able to encourage both young and old to further their musical talents.

President of the organization is Mrs. T. Clark of Berwyn, while Frank Donis of Grimshaw is vice-president and C. D. Algar of Berwyn, secretary-treasurer. A financial committee comprised of C. D. Algar, Frank Donis, A. K. O'Shea and Mrs. A. Dryadale has also been set up.

The Berwyn branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society held a successful dance last week at which it netted $65 for Red Cross work. Rev. Gordon Bratt, Rev. Father Otto Bach and Rev. E. Shaw are the leaders of the Berwyn branch.

LACOMBE

Education Week Held at Lacombe

Taking advantage of privileges offered at the local High School during Education Week, a large gathering of parents viewed pupils at work in the classrooms on Tuesday. Especial interest was taken in the domestic science and manual training rooms in the basement of the school. In the evening Principal Leslie Matheson and Robert Moore, high school teacher, addressed the regular banquet meeting of the local Lions Club in the Empress Hotel on various phases of present day education methods.

Cadet training will be a feature at the school in the near future after an absence of many years. At the last meeting of the school board, decision was made to purchase rifles and uniforms for the large number of boys who have signified their intention of joining the schools cadet corps.

RYLEY

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robson, the United Ladies' Aid decided to do Red Cross work and appointed a committee comprised of Mrs. E. W. Brown, Mrs. Rader Knudslein and Mrs. Tom Gonn, to handle the work. Samples have been requested and work will begin at once.

Threshing has again been halted by rain and snow.

LOUGHEED

Women's Institute To Help Red Cross In Lougheed Area

Providing that the approval of the Red Cross Society is given, the Lougheed branch of The Women's Institute will include Red Cross work as one of their projects, it was decided at a meeting of the Institute held at the home of Mrs. Zippeus.

Snow has once more put an end to threshing operations in the Lougheed district. However, farmers were able to complete nearly all their threshing during the recent spell of fine weather.

The Lutheran church north of Lougheed observed Mission Sunday on November 5. Rev. Staicy of Viking officiated. The choir from Sharon church, south of Irma, sang. Miss Nilgreed of Camrose gave an interesting talk on children's welfare, while Rev. Loken of Ryley also spoke.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE

Veterans Planning Memorial Service

Local veterans are planning their annual Remembrance Day supper for Saturday night. When war was declared in September, they talked of forgetting their celebration, they decided to carry on "as usual." Almost ever since the last war, the day here has been a "get-together" one for veterans, some of whom come fifty miles to meet other veterans whom they may not have seen since last November 11.

Children, young and old, are sliding down the hills again, and unfortunately, the two very best hills to slide on lead onto the town's two main streets. The town council, the police and parents have tried their best to stop the sliding, but to no avail. As cars and trucks are thick on the streets below the hills, there is grave danger for the children, but that doesn't stop them. It only scares the car drivers almost to death.

DAYSLAND

Mr. and Mrs. H. Leroy Beckett have left for Calgary, where they will reside. Mr. Beckett, former manager of the Dayaland Creamery, has been appointed provincial dairy inspector.

The total number of retail sales of new passenger cars was 1,937,350 during 1936, and commercial cars and trucks, 387,381.

Polish Settlers at Faust Making Steady Progress: Buy Threshing Machine

Enlarging their fields a little each year by the strenuous labor of grubbing the heavy timber in which they are located, Polish families living about two miles south of Faust have, by perseverance, brawn and thrift, steadily, though slowly, made progress and improved their homes and farms.

For the eight years since they settled on their first homesteads in the area, these hard-working people have flailed their grain with what they call "a stick and a half." This implement is made of two short sticks of different lengths attached to a handle.

But this fall the little Polish settlement took another step forward. Edward Hedrick purchased a small threshing machine from a farmer in the district. This, together with a dismantled gasoline engine which Hedrick repaired, proved very serviceable and he was not only able to thresh his own grain, but that on the farms of other members of the settlement.

CARVED OUT HOMES

Starting with the barest necessities of life, the hardy group have carved a fairly comfortable living out of the "raw" land. Each year they extend their little farms, make improvements to their homes and other farm buildings and generally make life more comfortable.

Other sections of the Lesser Slave district have progressed more rapidly, being settled largely by people with better equipment and financial reserves. Threshing machines have been in use in the district for more than 20 years and many modern conveniences are to be found in farm homes.

Now the Polish families have reached a point where they too can afford a few conveniences and in a very few years they should be on an equal footing with the rest of the community.

FAIRVIEW

Memorial Services Planned At Fairview

Annual Remembrance Day services are to be held in the St. Paul's United church, 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The services will be conducted by Reverend Cannon W. Prior of St. Peter's Anglican church. The preacher will be Reverend J. D. Woollatt of the United church. The serman will be, "Lest We Forget."

Inspector Gillis of Peace River, attended the Parent-Teachers meeting held at Fairview Monday and gave a talk in which he compared the expenditures of the old rural school districts and the new school divisions. Mrs. Brooks of Fairview gave an address dealing with the possibility of introducing sewing into the schools.

SYLVAN LAKE

Mrs. Hazelwood of Calgary has been visiting friends at Sylvan Lake.

Mr. A. J. Johnston, agent for the Imperial Oil Company, is having a new office building erected on the company's property.

William Wickware left last week to reside in Tomahawk, Alberta. Miss Leona Wickware is visiting her parents there.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Fordham of Calgary visited Mrs. L. Wright recently.

Mr. J. W. McIlniah, superintendent of the Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday school, and Mrs. R. E. Dodds, choir leader, conducted a song and praise service at the church last Sunday evening

PIONEERS PLAN POW-WOW HERE AT MONTH-END

Annual banquet and round-up of the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association will be held at the Macdonald hotel on Nov. 30, according to officials of the organization.

Already plans are well advanced for the event, and indications are that it will be one of the most largely attended functions of its kind in the history of the organization.

Buffalo meat and pemmican, together with roast turkey and many other good things will be on the menu.

Red River jigs and swing dances will vie with one another in popularity, while music will include that by a modern dance orchestra and a "hoe-down" fiddler playing the most approved jigs and reels.

Secretary J. A. McCool will be on hand with his megaphone and 10-gallon hat to "call the tune" in the square dances.

Alberta Trade Office Talked At East Parley

Establishment in Ottawa of an Alberta trade office to maintain contact with the Canadian War Supply Board is one of the questions that will be taken up with the Dominion government by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, during their current visit east, it was learned Wednesday.

Whether the office will be established probably will depend on the outcome of the discussions.

Already representations have been made to the province by the Chamber of Commerce and others to provide such an office.

Already British Columbia has opened such an office at Ottawa. The purpose is to maintain liaison with the War Supply Board and the British and French missions now arranging war supplies and to insure inquiries emanating from these organizations reaching provincial manufacturers and producers.

Americans In Sympathy With Dominion, Allies

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Bennett O. Knudson, president of the Kiwanis International, contended yesterday that the United States was neutral "in act only" and that "the sympathy of its people is overwhelmingly with the Dominion of Canada and its Allies in the present war."

The United States would intervene if Canada's democratic institutions were menaced by a foreign enemy, Knudson said in a prepared speech to officers of the service organization.

Patrons Greet Ballet With Enthusiasm

Rhythmic figures, graceful and youthful, enacting through brilliant steps and movements of the ballet a trio of interesting sketches of American life, claimed the enthusiastic attention of a capacity audience when the American Ballet Caravan gave its first Edmonton performance in the Empire theatre on Wednesday evening.

MOOD AND MANNER

Noth American mood and manner inspired the scenes enacted—a little drama at a road-side filling station, a character-ballet depicting the life of "Billy the Kid", and a gay debutante party of 25 years ago, all of which were delightfully portrayed.

The troupe of 21 dancers, young, charming and vigorous, displayed a brilliancy of movement founded on a complete knowledge of ballet technique and executed their parts with poise, precision and imagination.

J.H.L. SPONSORSHIP

Given under the sponsorship of the Edmonton Junior Hospital League, the performance was in aid of the Edmonton Garrison Entertainment Fund. His Honor, John Campbell Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, and Mrs. Bowen were distinguished patrons of the ballet.

TWO BOTTLES OF MOSBY'S TONIC MADE 85th ST. MAN FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON

"I Bloated With Gas Until I Felt Choked and Could Not Breathe Properly!" Says Mr. D. Peters, of 85th St.—"My Liver and Bowels Were Sluggish and I Was So Nervous With Suffering I Could Not Sleep Right, But Now, Mosby's Tonic Has Given Me Full Relief—It Is Splendid!"

"Two Bottles of MOSBY'S TONIC Made Me LIKE NEW. This Medicine Was What I Had Needed for a Long Time," Says MR. D. PETERS, of 12015 85th St., Edmonton. Read His Sincere Statement.

Mr. D. Peters, of 12013 85th St., Edmonton, is the latest widely-known resident of this section to come forward with his Public Endorsement of this "Splendid New Medicine," known as MOSBY'S TONIC, which is now being introduced to crowds daily in this city at The Army and Navy Dept. Store.

Mr. Peter's statement is a Truly Grateful one, so we will say only that this is a man of wide acquaintance and a resident of this vicinity for many years, and will then pass on at once to his Sincere Testimonial, which follows:

85th St. Man Was Weak, Nervous, Rundown.

"For 8 years I was in a suffering condition with stomach gas," said Mr. Peters. "After my meals I would bloat up with gas until my clothing felt tight around my waist line and I had gas pains that were almost more than I could stand and would feel choked from the gas and couldn't get enough breath. And I was not only badly bloated with gas after meals, but also sour-ed full of a sour, acidous fermentation. I tell you, I certainly was in distress! I couldn't get the good out of my food, and gradually failed in strength and got weak and rundown, and was so nervous with suffering that I couldn't sleep right. I also had sluggish liver action; and was troubled with constipation and had to take strong physics. I also had sickening bilious spells and a bitter taste in my mouth and a coated tongue

Two Bottles of Mosby's Tonic Brought Relief

"Recently I read in the papers about Mosby's Tonic and how it had already helped thousands of people in Edmonton and Alberta, so I got this medicine and started taking it, and I want to say that just two bottles of Mosby's Tonic have made me feel like a NEW PERSON! This medicine turned out to be just what I had needed for a long time. It relieved my sour, gassy, bloated stomach to an extent that I can eat my meals and enjoy them and not suffer afterward with gas pains and gassy swelling like I did before. Now my food digests better instead of turning sour and bitter as quick as I eat it. And this medicine also invigorated my sluggish liver, and it is certainly splendid for a person's bowels, and gives them a fine cleansing. I sleep well now, and feel stronger, and can do my work better. I can truthfully say that this is one of the finest medicines I have ever found, and I gladly endorse it."

20 Ingredients in This New Herbal Compound

MOSBY'S TONIC contains 20 Ingredients, including Mandrake and Herbs. It invigorates bowel, stomach, liver, and kidneys, and is a splendid laxative, laxative, cholagogue and diuretic. And that alone explains why they feel different all over. The price of this New Compound is Reasonable due to the immense volume in which it sells. So don't hesitate. Get Mosby's Tonic—TODAY!

A Special Mosby's Tonic Representative, known as The MOSBY TONIC MAN, is now at The ARMY and NAVY DEPT. STORE, Edmonton, daily meeting crowds of people and introducing and explaining this New Compound.

Wintry Days Tempt Activity Let-Down

By ALICIA HART

During the summer and early fall months, nobody needed to be urged to get plenty of sunshine and outdoor exercise. It was no burden or bore to play golf or tennis, lie on the beach in the sun or, later on, to whiz across the countryside, breathing deeply and loving nature's panorama of autumn colors.

Now, however, is the time when the average person needs to decide on some kind of exercise schedule and then stick to it. Girls who didn't mind walking to work those balmy summer mornings now are forcing themselves to walk home from work at least twice a week. Women who won't play golf or tennis again until spring are resolving to do a set of special exercises at least fifteen minutes a day.

The wise, beauty-minded woman knows that unless she gets exercise regularly and plenty of fresh air, she simply won't feel or look as well by the middle of January as she does now.

She knows, too, that if she continues to replace the hours of relaxation of summer afternoons and weekends with a continuous round of parties, her looks, if not her actual health, will suffer. If she has to be up very late one night, she tries to go to bed before ten the next. She saves a few hours of every weekend for herself.

Realizing that her appetite for rich food increases now that the weather is colder, she resolves to employ a little self-control. If she must eat between meals, she nibbles celery, lettuce or fruit rather than rich pastries and sweets. She never skips the salad course in favor of dessert.

If possible, she goes to bed the minute she suspects that she has caught a head or chest cold. And she stays there for twenty-four hours, resting and sleeping, and drinking quantities of orange juice and water. This way her cold often disappears quickly instead of getting worse and lowering her vitality before the winter has barely started.

Minute Make-Ups

Pushing the cuticle of your fingernails down daily will do much to make your polish last longer. Well-trained cuticle pushed back makes a deeper U or V at the base of the nail which helps to give an appearance of length to the nail. Uncared cuticle makes your fingers look stubby. Push it back with an orange stick, wrapped in cotton and dipped in cuticle oil.

Newlyweds Start Right By Budgeting Expenses

"No Money Quarrels for Us!"

Happy newlyweds! A budget to live high prices already worked out when the groom carries the bride over the threshold!

They're setting up housekeeping in a neighborhood of their own income group. No temptations here to run a hectic race with the Joneses!

Their living quarters they selected on the basis of 25 per cent of their income. Unlike many couples they won't come to grief over unexpected car repairs, overlooked telephone bills, but will take care of such items easily with funds set up for car operating, household operating.

For food, other items, they'll set aside similar funds. And their diet will be healthful as well as inexpensive, for this bride knows her calories and vitamins.

When tomatoes and oranges are high, she knows that raw cabbage and onions also supply Vitamin C.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have been married two and a half years and we have been perfectly happy and contented together. Everything would be perfect except that a problem has arisen in our lives. He has received a splendid offer of a business position away from home, one that will eventually mean security and ease for us, but I will not be able to go with him immediately because he will be travelling with other men from city to city. My trouble is that my friends advise me not to let him go. They say that no man is safe away from home, and they have got me nearly crazy. I am of a worrying disposition and I wonder if any of these things could happen to him.

MONA.

Answer: Anything can happen to anybody. All of us have to take our chances in life. You have no more guarantees that your husband will be faithful to you than any other woman has. So if you are a trouble bound, who can't be happy unless you are miserable, go to it and have a grand time torturing yourself by thinking that every time your husband is out of your sight he is chasing some woman. You will have a happy marriage, I don't think.

Personally, I can't imagine a woman having so little sense as to let what a few evil-tongued, gossip-mongers say overbalance her knowledge of her husband's character. In living with your husband you must have found out what manner of man he is. If you have found him a drunkard and a rou-ed and a wenkling, who can't resist any temptation, and he has been indulging you for some pretty little bloody you may be justified in suspecting that he will not live a cloistered life while he is off on this business trip.

But if you have found him upright and honest, moral, loyal and high-principled, and he has been devoted to you, don't you think you are offering him a gratuitous insult by believing that he will wallow in the gutter as soon as he is away from your restraining influence?

No wife ever makes a more fatal mistake than when she stands between her husband and his career. He may give in because she weeps at the thought of parting from him and stay with her, but he never forgives her, and it isn't long before he gets sick and tired of her. It is the women who push their husbands on to success, not the ones who hold them back, whose husbands love them to the end.

Debunker

Strangely enough, most jokes do not touch the trivial or funny side of life, but the serious things. Most jokes are based upon tragedy. Take the mother-in-law jokes, for instance—though they are applicable to only a few mothers-in-law. Then there are jokes about drunkenness, death, heaven and hell, famous last words, funerals, battles, slipping on bananas and the like—all the most serious aspects of life, but presented from an incongruous angle. Authorities say that jokes are an effort to escape from the realities of life, and that most humorists are not unusually funny offstage.

What To Do

Is it proper to use mainly the spoon, and the fork only as an additional help, when a salad bowl is passed at a dinner party? Is it correct to use a knife to help oneself to jelly when the jelly is served in individual containers, or to spread it on toast without placing the jelly on the plate first? Isn't it also permissible to put some jelly on the plate with a spoon, and then to use a knife for spreading it on the bread? Does a woman introduce her husband who is a professional man as Dr. So and So, if she does not know the people too well to whom she is presenting him? Thank you.

MISS R. N. Y.

Answer—Both the fork and spoon should be used when taking salad from a salad bowl. The fork in the left hand is used as a pusher and helps to keep the salad in the spoon while taking it from the bowl to the plate. It is not necessary to remove jelly from an individual container; spread it directly on the toast. A spoon should always be passed with jelly so a serving may be placed on the bread and butter plate and then spread on bread with an individual butter knife. When introducing a professional person, always give his title if he has one. For instance, a woman would introduce her doctor-husband in this way: Mrs. Littlefield, I want you to know my husband—Dr. So and So.

Raising A Family

If Junior has been bad, is the best time to punish him:

A. Right away?
B. Next day?
C. When his father comes home?
D. With others watching?

I have not given any one right answer, really. In certain cases any of them may be right.

The best solution is "E", not on the list. Correct any child when you think it will be most effective without destroying something in the child himself that will make for better conduct in the future.

O. R. Burton

As for "A", this is the danger; scold the child or punish him at the precise moment of his breach, and like the enemy prepared, he is ready to fight it.

Maybe he won't do much about it, but you see, children know pretty well when they have broken bounds, and the minute conscience is hit, there comes with it an instant defense.

It fits right in, shall we say, with the man who robs a bank because he needs the money, or because he needs the excitement so badly he can't resist. Be sure there is always aggressive defiance in every wrong-doer's mind, stronger at the time of commission than later.

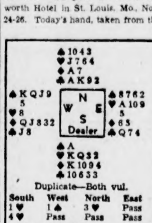

As for "B", sometimes it is a good idea, but next day seems a little long. By this time Billy may think something far past has been dug up to pester him. But if there is a certain tendency to repeat offences by a kind, then a good heart to heart talk about the trouble he is creating will probably be most effective when young Bill is not excited or does not have his mind on something else. Perhaps next day.

McKenney On Bridge

Opening—♠ K.

1938 tournament, shows the fine play which won Alvin Landy of Cleveland the pair championship.

After the opening lead, Landy (South) saw that game was easy unless some bad breaks developed. He led the king of hearts and East held off. He could not afford a second round of trumps yet, as a third round would be embarrassing.

He led a small club to the ace and returned a spade from dummy to ruff. Another club to the king put dummy in again to lead the last spade and South ruffed.

The object in going over with clubs instead of diamonds was to find out whether the clubs were split 3-2. Having found that they were, Landy now led another club to establish his remaining trick in the suit before having to stop the spade suit with trumps.

East won with the queen of clubs and put up the best defense by cashing the ace of trumps and then leading a spade. Dummy ruffed with the seven of hearts and led the last club. East ruffed, but then could do nothing but lead a diamond or a trump and declarer won the last three tricks, the jack of hearts picking up East's last trump.

Landy thus lost two hearts and one club, making his contract.

It is not advisable to use gasoline as a cleaner on an automobile finish, because it will dull the finish.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blocks up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A sure liver and bowel tonic is known to druggists all the country over as Carter's Little Liver Pills. They make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

★UNITY OF CANADA

★NATIONAL UNITY is vital to success of Canada's War Effort

This series of advertisements was initiated many months prior to the outbreak of war. Its theme "Unity of Canada" was prophetic; a message that today is more vital than ever to all Canadians.

For in Unity lies the strength of the Dominion, and we, of the Automotive Industries, accept our full responsibility in working as well as writing towards this end.

Now, more than ever before, our plants and highly specialized equipment are Dominion assets, our skilled workmen, vital cogs in the wartime industrial set-up in which the production of units of transport looms more important than ever.

So remember, when you buy a Canadian-Built car, you are helping support an industry that distributes more than $22,000,000.00 in wages and salaries to many thousand families dependent on the industry itself. Add to these the families that are supported by industries supplying raw and finished materials to the Automobile manufacturers, and you get an idea of what this activity means to the Canadian Home Market.

A busy Automotive Industry in wartime is a live asset indeed—a truly national war enterprise.

The great natural resources of New Brunswick, her forests, her soil, her harvest of her forests, her fish, her minerals, are at the disposal of His Majesty. Her splendid ocean ports of Saint John stands ready to handle the great stream of goods which will pour through from all over Canada to help the Motherland in her hour of great necessity. TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Nov. 9—Prices drifted downward at a little faster pace today on the Toronto stock market, under the influence of a weak display in Wall Street. Losses up to a point appeared among the interlisted leaders of the base metal and industrial groups and the cheaper mining and western oil shares recorded moderate declines. Trading was slow on the sell off and aggregate turnover for the day was only about 200,000 shares.

Declines out-numbered gains in the steel, food, senior oil, and miscellaneous industrials while the utilities and the papers maintained a firm to strong tone.

Preston sold down to 1.82 and recovered part of the loss and net declines of about 5 cents were chalked up for Little Long Lac, Pickle Crow, Teck Hughes, Hard Rock, and Oro Plata. Lake Shore weakened slightly.

Most of the pivotal base metals weakened moderately including Noranda, Smelters, Waite-Amulet and Sherritt.

Home Oil turned heavy, dropping 15 cents to 2.53. Part of the loss was erased. The close was down a few cents for Akaita, Anglo-Canadian, Dalhousie and Calgary-Edmonton.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—A late selling wave swept over the stock market today and toppled prices fractions to more than 2 points. Transfers were close to 1,000,000 shares.

Financial quarters were confused by another break in the British pound sterling in terms of the dollar, and fears arose in this connection the Germans may be preparing to start the long-awaited push through Belgium or The Netherlands.

Business happenings at home remained of a cheerful character, and the inability of the majority of stocks to respond to highly satisfactory earnings and dividends was said to have done as much to chill buyers as anything else.

In the belated nose-dive were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Curtiss-Wright, Sperry, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Santa Fe, General Electric and Caterpillar Tractor. Resistant were U.S. Rubber pfd., International Mercantile Marine, American Can and Walworth. Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Broomhall

Broomhall says further buying of Canadian wheat by England was reported yesterday through the usual trade channels. If 3,00,0000 bushels were actually bought this would mean about 12 vessels, which is equal to about one convoy. Fortunately the business is still being worked through the trade and not direct between the two governments. England must naturally buy in the cheapest market with due respect to the colonies, and therefore it is better to transact business ith the trade and not with the various governments. Farmers in England have been advised to use hay in place of corn. The Argentine has had two small corn crops and supplies there are far below normal. The United States had a large crop this year, but prices are high in sympathy with dear wheat and the United States government is expected to loan 57c on commercial corn this season while Argentine corn at Buenos Aires is only 55c despite the small reserves there. There is no confirmation of between six and ten cargoes of U. S. subsidized wheat sold to the Russian army at Vladivostok which is usual in the fall of the year but generally this business is done with the Argentine or with Vancouver.

TWO NEUTRALS PREPARE FOR ANY INVASION

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 9.—The Netherlands cleared out villages in new "water line" regions today preparatory to defensive flooding and Belgium raised her mobilization to a new peak figure of about 600,000 men.

Passenger service out of Amsterdam was ordered restricted, beginning at 4 p.m., "in view of extraordinary measures taken by the railway company." The order was believed generally to have been due to heavy precautionary movements of troops eastward.

The actions of the two nations were interpreted as evidence of a wary determination to be ready for any turn in the war. Official sources in both insisted, however, they feared no immediate danger.

PREMIER KING ASKS SUPPORT OF POPPY FUND

OTTAWA, Nov. 9—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a message issued yesterday, called upon Canadians to support the Poppy Day Fund of Canada's ex-servicemen.

With Canada once more engaged in war, the Prime Minister said, a contribution to the fund would serve a two-fold purpose—aiding veterans of the first Great War and assuring those now in the service of their country that they too could count on "grateful remembrance of their fellow citizens."

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, said last night in a Poppy Day fund message "we must not forget to pause and pay tribute to our heroic dead who gave their lives in that last great struggle which, as time has shown, was but the prelude to this, the final fight against tyranny, injustice and persecution."

170 Bushels Corn Per Acre Is Yield

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 9—Roland Resler astounded the agricultural world today by certifying for production competition in hybrid corn a yield of 1,028 bushels from a six-acre field, slightly more than 171 bushels to the acre. Corn experts said they believed the farmer had established a record yield.

Canada's Problem In Wheat Market Still Ottawa's Woe

By GRANT DEXTER

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—The problem of marketing Canada's large wheat surplus is under constant discussion at Ottawa. This has been true since the beginning of the war and promises to remain true for some time to come.

Every day the cables bring reports of the discussions which are taking place at London. Every day the government's mail bags bring advice from producers, from the trade and from the general public. Conferences are being held here almost daily between ministers and senior officials.

The nub of this problem is whether the open market should be closed and the job of marketing Canada's wheat surplus taken over by the Dominion government.

The first decision, taken shortly after the outbreak of war, was to maintain the Winnipeg market. This was the decision of a majority of the cabinet and was never a permanent policy.

WISEST COURSE

The majority of the ministers decided that in the light of circumstances then existing the wisest course was to maintain the market but as the situation was bound to change from time to time, there was an understanding that the decision would be frequently reviewed.

Thus last September, the consensus of view was that the Winnipeg market should be kept open for the time being and the situation thoroughly reviewed before the end of the year. There was at that time, and has been ever since, a minority in the cabinet which believed that the market should be closed.

It was then and is today a small minority.

In the past ten days reports have been in circulation saying that the Winnipeg market is to be closed.

There is no basis for these reports. The majority in the cabinet is still of the same opinion. No doubt, however, the warrant for such reports exists in the fact that the problem is constantly under review and liable to change.

There has never been much secrecy regarding the chief factors which led to the decision to retain the open market.

The British cereal authority was known to desire the closing of the market. Britain desires to purchase its wheat direct from the Canadian government and at the lowest possible price. Britain has tended to seek a parity in prices between Canada, the Argentine and Australia.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Recent British purchases in Australia have been made at the equivalent of 46 to 50 Fort William for top grade. Naturally, Ottawa has not been enthusiastic over this proposition.

The Canadian authorities apparently have felt, and strongly, that the quality of Canadian wheat plus the geographic position of this country (a steady stream of protected convoys which guarantee against loss by submarines) are strong factors in price. It is recalled that in the last war Australian wheat rotted because of Britain's unwillingness to spare ships for the haul and to face the risks involved.

It is well understood here, that these southern exporters will seek to offset these disadvantages by quoting low prices but it is felt that this is no reason why Canada should meet such distress quotations.

Moreover, United States prices are regarded as being not without influence in determining a fair price for Canadian wheat.

SEVERAL POLICY LINES

Therefore, as the government saw this problem, several lines of policy were possible.

The market could be kept open, as an essential means of determining a fair price for wheat.

Or the market could be closed and the wheat taken over by the Canadian government.

In the latter event the government would have a choice of a number of policies.

1—The representations of the pools could be accepted and the government could fix a wheat price to the producers on a parity with prices which the producers have to pay. Such a parity has been worked out by the pools at $1.15 per bushel. This course was regarded as impossible. Calculated at the highest price which Britain might be persuaded to pay, the loss to the Canadian treasury would be great—perhaps $150,000,000.

2—The government could close the Winnipeg market as a part of an agreement with Britain whereby Britain would take a substantial quantity of Canadian wheat during the current crop year (well over 100,000,000 bushels) at a price definitely above 70 cents per bushel.

3—The market could be closed and the government could take pot luck. In this event, the government would take over the wheat, there would be no market to set a fair price and foreign buyers would deal with Ottawa on the assumption that having fixed an initial price of 70 cents, the Caandian government, in effect, had declared the price at which it was ready to sell. If Canada has a monoply on wheat the position might be different but there is nothing to date to indicate that this is so.

NATIONAL INTERESTS

Under the circumstances, the majority in the cabinet believed that national interests and particularly the interests of the producers would be best served by retaining the Winnipeg market. The market enabled the government to say to Britain and to other buying countries: "There is the market and this is the fair price." Suppose that adverse weather conditions in the United States brought a short crop and that prices at Chicago rose substantially, say to $1.50 per bushel—this bullish effect, in the view of the government, would be reflected to ome extent in the Winnipeg market.

At the moment it appears that the second alternative, under a closed market, is the one which might bring about a change in policy before the year is out. If Britain is prepared to take a substantial quantity of wheat, to increase the percentage of Canadian flour in the bread mix, and to pay a price definitely above 70 cents—Ottawa might then agree.

Whether or not such an agreement is possible can not be ascertained here but there is some reason to believe that this situation is being canvassed.

But in any event, it is true to say that the dangers in any policy based upon a closed market are thoroughly realized here and will not lightly be risked.

CANADA WILL BENEFIT FROM WAR INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Development of the industrialization of Canada s a result of the war was predicted yesterday by the National Industries Conference Board, a research organization supported largely by large industrial firms.

The board said it based its prediction of accelerated industrialization on three factors:

1—The Dominion's geographical position is a valuable asset and plants could be built which would be virtually immune from attack by enemy bombers.

2—Canada is well supplied with raw materials and can get many others required, by rail from the United States.

3—The growth in industry since the last war has increased her supply of skilled labor and her supply of capable managers.

BIG INCREASE REGISTERED IN HOG RECEIPTS

Showing an increase of 46.4 per cent over the corresponding month last year, receipts of hogs at the Edmonton stockyards and city packing plants totalled 68,154 as compared with 46,548 during October, 1938, according to a special report issued Wednesday by S. W. Sheppard, senior markets supervisor at the stockyards here.

Bacon prices and hog grades this October were also correspondingly higher than those of last October, the report stated.

PRICES UP

Price of bacon during October, 1939, averaged $8.06 as compared with the average price during the same 31-day period, 1938, of $7.72.

Hog receipts for last month graded 38.7 per cent selects, 50.1 per cent bacons, grade A rails 30.9 per cent and grade B rails 57.9 per cent.

During the month of October, 1938, hogs graded 36.9 per cent selects, 42.4 per cent bacons, 34.7 per cent A grade rails and 51.8 B grade rails.

Hog receipts at the stockyards alone totalled 6,788 for the month of October this year. The latter figures showed an increase of 2,184 over October, 1938, receipts.

The hog market, according to the regular monthly report from the yards, made slight fluctuations throughout October. The high was $8.15 for trucked bacons and $8.35 for long hauled Peace Rivers. The low was $7.25 for trucked bacons, this price lasting only two days, reverting back to $7.75.

MARKET FIRM

The closing week prices were firm at $7.90 for bacons to the close of the month's trading, selects bringing a premium of 50 cents per cwt. and butchers discounted $1 per cwt.

Cattle receipts at the yards for October totalled 8,344, calf receipts 3,187 and sheep 2,743. This showed a decrease under October, 1938, figures of 2,458 cattle, 756 calves and 75 sheep, the report stated.

PREMIER ASKS MORE STRESS MORAL VALUES

Addresses Opening Of City Teachers' Convention Thursday

If democracy and civilization are to be preserved, spiritual and moral values must be inculcated in the minds of children by their teachers, Premier William Aberhart, B.A., said in an address at the opening of the 15th annual Edmonton City Teachers' convention in the Normal School, Thursday.

The underlying cause of the weakness in the educational system today, he said, is lack of a proper economic system. The root causes must be remedied before real progress can be made, he said.

The future generations of the world lie in the hands of the educationists, the premier said, and they must accept this responsibility.

EFFECT OF NAZISM

"Nazism creates a peculiar type of education," he said, "which makes children think as their masters wish them to. But education is a better safeguard of liberty than all the standing armies of the world.

"Millions of people today are groping through darkened cities because the nations have been living in a spiritual blackout and millions today are hearing air raid warnings because they have

ALBERTA IS LASHED WITH WINDS, SNOW

Blizzard Disrupts Traffic, But It's Back To Normal Thursday

Airplane, train and motor traffic was back to normal Thursday following Wednesday's blizzard which swept the province from north to south to reach a peak velocity of 68-miles-per-hour in Calgary. Sun was shining in all sections of Alberta this morning.

Planes, grounded by blinding snow and driving winds, which gained a top velocity of 18 miles in Edmonton, 30 miles in Red Deer and 68 miles in Calgary were flying on schedule today.

HIGHWAYS OPEN

Alberta Motor association reported no blocking of roads. All main highways are open and in fair to good condition with sidercads rough and frozen.

Approximately 3½ inches of snow was recorded in Edmonton, while temperatures during the blow touched a low of 14 above. Highest reading in the city was 29 above.

Local forecast is for continued cold weather.

MERCURY SLIDES

Temperatures dipped sharply in the near and far northern stretches of the province, ranging in the closer northern sections at 8:30 this morning from eight below at Dawson Creek and Hythe to 18 above at Slave Lake. Half an hour later in the sub-Arctic, temperatures scaled upward from 12 below at Ft. Smith and 11 below at Norman to eight above at Dawson.

Street car and bus traffic suffered little disruption as rotary cane sweepers of the street railway system kept tracks open.

THE QUESTION

"What do you think should be done to arouse greater interest in public affairs amongst young people?"

THE ANSWERS

COLIN HAY, merchant: Young men in Great Britain are trained to be leaders in public affairs. This is true not only of the great families, whose sons belong to political clubs at Oxford, but of the sons of trade unionists who receive a fine training in their unions. There is conscious shaping of the young men to assume the responsibilities of leadership. The same thing should be done here.

• • •

L. E. DRUMMOND, Chamber of Mines: When great issues arise, young men are not found wanting. In normal times, what has to be done is to conquer the lethargy which marks youth's attitude to politics and only education can do this.

JEAN COLLINS, librarian: If the tone of political discussion can be raised and purified, I don't think you will have much trouble getting people interested. As long as it seems a rough enterprise, many young people, wisely or unwisely, will shrink from it.

• • •

HOWARD CLANEY, clerk: You have to keep people's interest up even when there is no election. That should be easy, as the best time for a free and unpassioned discussion of party politics is the interval between election campaigns. Make political study a serious business and people will respond.

Through The Mill

"A woman, like fire, is man's best friend, provided she is kept properly under control," wrote Tizz-Too, Peruvian philosopher, after having had a serious misunderstanding with Tain-Too, high priestess in the temple of Nis. And that saying seems to be just as true today.

A man whose wife is no longer his best friend appeared in police court Thursday morning charged with non-support, and it cost him ten bucks just to get out of court until the case is heard next week.

The story starts about two months ago when the guy comes home one evening in a bad humor and beats the smokin' ole Joe out of his lovely dove. As soon as she can get onto her feet she spreads her crippled wings and flits down to the police station to show her bruises and tell her story. After a quick glance at her pummeled puss they hop in a squad car and whip down and bring back her hubby and slap him into the jug. In police court the next morning he pleads guilty and magistrate throws the book at him for two months.

Come Wednesday afternoon and the big gets out of Fort Saskatchewan. Now while he is in the Fort he refuses to give her any oughday although he has 35 smackers tucked away in his jeans. So she lays a charge of non-support against him and as soon as he is out of jail he is in again. But he gets bail and Thursday morning appears in court and his lawyer asks for an adjournment. So the magistrate orders him to anie up with ten bucks to keep his wife until the trial. Hubby coughs up and gets out.

FITZPATRICK RE-ELECTED TO SERVICE

F. J. Fitzpatrick was re-elected president of Edmonton Branch No. 5 of the Alberta Civil Service Association at its annual meeting Wednesday in the Legislative buildings cafe. This will be Mr. Fitzpatrick's third term in the presidential chair.

C. Gunderson was elected vice-chairman.

The committee elected was as follows:

H. Bannerman, F. Baker, T. Crowe, Miss E. Stevenson, A. D. Dobbie, T. R. Blain and O. Cochrane.

Consideration was given to plans for representation at the annual meeting of the parent Civil Service Association to be held at Calgary Dec. 8 and 9, and indications are that this branch will be well represented.

Resolutions for submission to the annual meeting are now being drafted.

Twenty delegates were named to represent the branch at the Calgary convention. They were William Baldwin, Miss Harmony Balfour, A. D. Dobbe, H. C. French, E. S. George, Miss Jean Anderson, H. E. Kemp, A. A. Kirby, John Martin, D. Sandilands, H. S. Baird, Miss Emelie Brett, R. J. Gillis, R. W. Huggett, W. Logan, Miss W. Meakin, Miss B. Vandewater, according to word received here. He is charged with causing grievous bodily harm to Chester Olsen and with wounding cattle at Willow Valley.

Dr. G. Lay, veterinarian at the Olds School of Agriculture, has begun touring the district east of Olds, inspecting and treating hogs for farmers in an attempt to arrest the epidemic that has cost the farmers hundreds of hogs in the last few weeks. Dr. P. R. Talbot, provincial veterinarian, is expected to investigate the losses. It is suspected that the ailment among the swine is a combination of more than one disease, and may be caused by poor pasture, improper feeding or worms.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from Andrews' chapel for Hugh Munro, 87, father of Grace Munro Hope, wife of Dr. G. J. CANADA GROWS WITH EMPIRE SAVANT SAYS

Canadian development has been moulded to a large degree by the fact that Great Britain controlled the seas, and the position and prestige of this Dominion is greatly enhanced today by the fact it is a member of the empire, Prof. Morden H. Long, professor of history at the University of Alberta, told the Philosophical Society Wednesday night.

Prof. Long, speaking, said that it is not often realized that in the formative years of Canada's growth, the shield of British naval strength was responsible for the retention and consolidation of Canada within the empire.

Dr. E. H. Moss, president of the society, was chairman.

SEA POWER

Prof. Long said the dominance of sea power held by Great Britain, its powerful trade connections, its genius for granting expanding freedom to the constituent parts of the empire, and its capacity for tolerance, form some of the essential characteristics of the imperial heritage.

He saw two schools of thought, the isolationist and the collectivist, in Canada in regard to the relation of the Dominion to the empire.

The isolationist wished to reduce commitments to the empire to the minimum and leave Canada to be master of her own fate, stating that Canada was a North American nation, and in any event, should not try to get involved in Europe's feuds and hates.

The other and opposed doctrine wished to strengthen Canada's responsibilities as a member of the empire in the belief that in this way the best contribution of Canada to world order and progress could be made.

Prof. Long said that while these two views had some elements in common, they were usually regarded as being mutually exclusive. He added that "a middle of the way policy" had usually been followed by Canadian statesmen irrespective of party.

Prof. Long said he did not agree with the isolationist position, while admitting that some of its criticism was worthy of serious consideration.

CHARITY GAME PRODUCES KEEN HOCKEY

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

'Ware the Limb
Soops Were There
The Roundup

TODAY I'm resisting the urge to crawl out on a limb and write me a highly optimistic forecast as to what our Flyers are likely to accomplish in the Alberta Senior Hockey League that opens here on November 18.

After watching the Flyers in last night's charity practice tilt, I tell myself that we've got some smart looking wranglers. Then I remember that there are six other clubs in the league and that I have not yet seen them in action. That cools me down considerably.

Next I remember that last night's game was just a practice affair in which the defencemen were not tossing any heavy checks for fear of injuries—and I become still more cautious. Wingers will go hurtling in on a goal like major leaguers as long as they know that the defence is not going to step into them and pile them up in the customers' seats.

If I had a dollar for every sport scribe who has been made to look silly by teams that he tabbed as sensational at the start of the season, I would retire to the South Seas and never scowl again at a typewriter.

Once in awhile the more enthusiastic fans fail to appreciate the fact that if you build a team up as a gang of rip-snorters and the team does nothing but snort you are hurting that branch of sport. Actually you are selling a bunch of sincere, hard-trying fellows as stars which they aren't and which they don't claim to be. The fans go out expecting a super-super show and if it falls one iota short of being that there will be a thunder of knocks. I don't mean to infer that our Flyers are without stars. The above is just an explanation of a general policy that has been found to pay regular dividends.

For these reasons I'll just string along with a bit of restraint for awhile. Our Flyers look as if they will be a team that fans here can rely on for bright, entertaining hockey. Unless the league is considerably stronger all around than it was last year, the Flyers should also win at least enough games to keep playoff prospects bright.

These same hedged observations go for the new E. A. C. squad that Coach Lefty Grove is launching into another junior campaign.

Soops Visited Nazi Shrine

WORD had come in before the game last night of the bomb explosion that narrowly missed liquidating Hitler in the famous Nazi beer garden shrine at Munich. Ira Stuart and all the members of the Superiors who toured Europe on a hockey jaunt in 1932-33 immediately recalled the visit which they made to this hall.

"It's about the size of a theatre," Ira recalled. "When we reached Munich, we were told that this Buergerbrau hall was one of the places we should see since it was the birthplace of the Nazi party headed by Hitler. It wasn't until a couple of months after our visit that Adolf became the big boss, but he certainly was a big shot at that time.

"This hall is famous for the intriguing steins that it uses to serve beer in. They told us that on the average 100 steins were stolen or broken each day. All the boys wanted a stein for a souvenir, so I bought 20 of them and I guess they are still sitting around the boys' homes here today."

Here and There Stuff

HARRY THOMAS, the fighter who claimed he dived for Galento and Schmeling and whose charges started an investigation of fighting in Illinois, has not suffered by coming clean. He has a job coaching an amateur boxing club for an up-state New York church.

Looks as if Eddie Shore struck gold in his first hockey ownership venture. His Springfield Indians in the International-American league have started off with a bang, winning two and drawing one, the best start they've had in seasons. Result: capacity crowds for home games, busloads of followers for road games and shekels in the old defence slat's sock.

SPORTS BULLETINS

Believe It Or Not — By Robt. Ripley

Lethbridge Leafs Have Starry New Puck Chasers

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 9.—Only seven players of the Lethbridge Maple Leaf team which won the Alberta senior hockey championship last winter are still with the team for this season's campaign. But around them have been gathered a group of puck-chasers expected to provide plenty of opposition of the other six entries in the Alberta Senior League.

Out for their third year in senior company—they spent the first in the Kootenay League—Leafs have a heavier aggregation than a year ago. Knocked out of the Allan cup playdowns in the spring by Kimberley Dynamiters when influenza hit their ranks, they aim to retain their title with a compact, tentative roster of 14 players.

DO GREAT WORK

Under Coach Freddie Metcalfe and Manager Herman Thole who have played a big part in making Lethbridge the most hockey-minded town in western Canada, 13 of the players have been working out since October 15. In this squad are seven forwards, four defencemen and Goalkeeper Andy Young.

Bob Kirkpatrick, star centre who set a new league scoring record last year, turned down an offer to play with Hershey of the International-American league and rejoined Leafs in Saskatchewan this week.

Kirkpatrick will lead one of the Leafs' three forward lines and Joe MacArthur, of last year's Port Arthur Bearcats, Allan Cup winners will lead another. The third pivot will be Johnny Uriakk, a holdover.

For left wing duty Metcalfe had picked up hustling Putt Holditch of Olds Elks to aid Doug French and Benny Hayes. French, a stocky Calgary youngster, was with Leafs last year. Hayes was "loaned" by the Lethbridge club last winter to Trail Smoke Eaters for their European tour.

Jimmy McIndoe, an effective sniper, rookie Johnny Kennedy from Red Deer Intermediates and Sam Calles from Trail Blazers will share the right wing chores. They may be aided by Harvey Barnes, another member of last year's team who is expected to do most of his playing on the defence.

PUNCH IN STEWART

Ken Stewart, high-scoring defenceman of the league last year, is expected to provide the punch in the rearguard division. To aid him and Barnes, Leafs have picked up Dave Farmer and Bill Gnufrechuk.

Andy Young, who scored a string of shut-outs with Leafs last year and was easily the league's most effective goalkeeper, will be in the nets again. For relief duty there are a couple of Lethbridge youngsters, Buster Martin and Bruce Morton, but neither has much hope of seeing service.

Stukus-Thornton Win Grid Award

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—Bill Stukus and Bernie Thornton were nominated Tuesday night by their teammates of Toronto Argonauts for the Jeff Russel Memorial trophy, an annual award of Big Four Football League governors to the player judged most valuable to his team and most sportsmanlike.

Minneapolis Bests Omaha Knights 4-1

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Nakina Smith led Minneapolis Millers to a 4-1 win over Omaha Knights as the American Hockey Association season opened here last night. Smith scored twice in the first period. Whitney Farrant and Red Mitchell getting the other Minneapolis goals. Bruneteau scored for Omaha.

Joe's Kid Brother Keeps Name in Lights

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—Joe DiMaggio's kid brother, Dominic, is keeping the family name in lights out on the west coast.

The third of the famous outfielding brothers—Joe, Vincent and Dominic—today was named by The Sporting News as the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Young DiMaggio, who started with San Francisco Seals, accumulated 49 points in voting by the league's official scorers.

Bruins Give Great Scoring Exhibition

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 9.—Twenty goals were scored when Boston's world champion Bruins and Seaforth's amateur Beavers scrambled squads last night for an exhibition game before 2,000 hockey fans here. The score was 15-5 in Boston's favor but after the first period, the teams were mixed.

Shamlock Gives E.A.C. 6-5 Win Over Flyers

EDMONTON'S senior Flyers and E.A.C. juniors went on full dress parade last night as fans got their first glimpse of hockey this winter as the two teams mixed up in a charity exhibition game that drew a good crowd despite snow and wind.

The E.A.C. won 6-5—if that means anything. Both teams swapped players to even up their strength and the result was bright, crisp hockey that had the fans roaring time after time.

At the end of the first period the E.A.C. was leading 4-1. The second period was scoreless. At the start of the third canto the Flyers cracked in three goals to tie the score at 4-4. With less than four minutes left, Carr-Harris put the Flyers in front 5-4. In less than a minute MacKay tied it up for the E.A.C. Then with only 10 seconds of play left, Shamlock took a pass from Reardon to make it 6-5 and a victory for the E.A.C.

The Edmonton Athletic Club Juniors were strengthened for the game by the addition of Gradies Robbins and Munro from the Flyers. Defencemen Talbot and Watt and the forward line of Sutherland, Shamlock and Sieffes from the senior club. Three stalwart soldiers from the Edmonton Garrison, Willia, Kolyk and Currie also bolstered the Juniors.

Biefgen, up from the E.A.C. Juveniles of last year, did half of the net minding for the Flyers, while Doug Kilburn handled the balance. Spencer and Morrison from the Garrison formed one Flyer pair, Carr-Harris and Brown the other. The E.A.C. line of MacKay, McGill and Simpson player with the Flyers.

Highlight of the first half of the game was the goalkeeping of Gordon Robbins. He stopped Flyer thrusts time after time that looked like certain goals and was largely responsible for the E. A. C. win. Young Biefgen also turned in a creditable performance in the nets, Kilburn and Munro also had their brilliant moments.

Both juniors and seniors gave every indication that they will be turning in some mighty interesting hockey this season.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Nov. 9.—Excited at winning $128.20 for $2 on the "daily double," William Brogie, 63, of Brighton, Mass., collapsed at Narragansett race track Wednesday and died.

Kenora Hockeyists Say Game Popular With Australians

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 9.—Spike Robertson and Pinky Clifton, Kenora hockey players, returned from Sydney, Australia, with reports that hockey is definitely catching on "down under."

Robertson and Clifton went to Australia 18 months ago with two other Kenora boys. One of them, Stew Fielder, returned last spring but Russ Curron remained after the close of the Australian season last month.

A few Canadian and English boys play in the eight-team league in Sydney but the bulk of the performers are native Australians.

YANKEE COACH SAYS HURLERS VERY SCARCE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 9.—Baseball scout Johnny Nee generously disclosed Wednesday how three or four American League clubs can whale those New York Yankees next season, but it was just like telling a hungry man if he had some ham he could have some ham and eggs—if he had the eggs.

All these other clubs have to do is beg, borrow or steal a few good pitchers, declared Nee, veteran ivory hunter for the Yankees.

Then he observed that there is the worst dearth of pitching talent in his experience, and—just to make it unanimous—the Yankees control practically all of the limited supply.

Unless the other teams are able to remedy their pitching deficiencies, indications are that the Yanks will roll on to another pennant, said Nee.

"Things are so bad the Athletics had to draft Elon Hogsett, an old timer in his 30's, and the Giants picked up Paul Dean," said Nee.

E.A.C. Favored To Beat Saskatoon Here Friday

FOLLOWING their brilliant performance in last night's charity game, Edmonton Athletic Club was figured the favored squad to beat Saskatoon's highly rated Dodgers when they clash at the Arena Friday night.

Only a half dozen of last year's stars on the western Canada championship team remain in uniform here this year, but the vacancies have been well filled by some starry imports and also by young players rising out of the juvenile squad.

First liners, Jack McGill at centre and Bruce MacKay and Jack Simpson on the wings, looked good last night. Other front liners such as Elmer Kreller, Frankie Chad and Wilf Shaw looked good while the third line, coming from Juvenile ranks will be Billy Maher, Warren Keefe and Pete Gregorashuk.

E.A.C.'s defence, too looks strong with Ken "Beans" Reardon and Doug Anderson forming a good blue line duo. Pug Young will also be on the blue line chain.

Guarding the nets will be Cliff Kilburn who will be starting his third year with the junior club. Howie Biefgen is the other E.A.C. guardian.

The Dodgers come to Edmonton with a star-studded team. Dodgers are the combined forces of the famed Wesley and Chief teams of Saskatoon's junior hockey.

The game will start at 8.30 p.m.

Westmount Table Tennis Team Tops

Only two matches were played in the High School Table Tennis league this week, with the other scheduled games being defaulted because of football practices and games.

"Westmount A. by gaining a draw to distinguish between them, with Scona A still holds top position in the league, closely followed by Westmount and Victoria.

The captains of each team have reorganized into a committee with M. Scott, chairman, to draw up a set of rules and to give each team a name which will make it easier to distinguish between them.

"A bottle of good port (and unless port is good I don't want it) used to be, of necessity, a rare treat. Then a connoisseur introduced me to Emu. I tried it—savoured its fine aroma, its full, rich flavour and rounded body. From now on, I'm sticking to EMU . . . and I can have it often, too."

Made from the finest sun-ripened grapes of South Australia's famous vineyards, Emu enjoys every advantage of the low Empire tariff.

CALGARY PREPS DESPERATELY FOR GRID FINAL

Janiten Jolters Feature Friday Preliminary Bouts

THIRTY rounds of boxing will be the Canadian Legion's fistic offering at the Memorial Hall Friday night and will include a 10-round go between Eddie McSporran and Lindsay Guild, a double semi-windup featuring the Janiten kayo artists and two four-round preliminary bouts with the curtain raiser timed for 8:30 p.m.

The McSporran-Guild main is supported by one of the finest windup and preliminary cards arranged here in many moons. Fans have watched the Janiten boys, Leo and Arnold, count up a number of kayo bouts. All the while their opposition is improved on and Friday Leo meets his stiffest test to date in Kid Apperson from Regina.

Apperson comes to Edmonton with a good record. His many "clippings" prove that Leo will have to be the keen-eyed, hard hitting young man of previous fights in order to get by the Regina mitt slinger.

Arnold meets an arch enemy when he tees into Pte. Jimmy Rimmer. This pair fought many weeks ago. It was a close, bitter battle the result of which gave no satisfaction to either boxer. Friday both will seek that satisfaction and a torrid punching till is assured.

Final arrangements were completed as Don Estes signed to scrap in a special four rounder and his opposition will be the much favored and popular Vic Pollock.

The curtain raiser will be Popeye Harding against Hector Barcelo and will start the card at 8:30 p.m.

ASCOT RACE MEET

LONDON, Nov. 9—Steps are being taken with a view to arranging a four-day race meeting at Ascot next June, it was learned Wednesday.

Coach Drills Squad; Club Rustles Money

CALGARY, Nov. 9.—While members of the Calgary rugby booster club worked desperately to secure enough funds to assure that the second game of the western Canada football finals will be played in Calgary, Dick Haughian and his Bronks went through a final "skull practice" last night and then announced themselves fit, ready and confident for the opening assignment in Winnipeg this Saturday.

Coach Haughian spent four hours of the afternoon studying moving pictures of previous games in which Winnipeg Blue Bombers have played this year. At the chalk talk later he discussed the pictures with the team in making final plans for the game.

TO DO THEIR BEST

Haughian spoke for the rest of the club when he said: "We think we can win that championship. Anyway, we'll be doing our best and we think that our best now is a lot better than it was a few weeks ago before we started to roll in that Regina game last Saturday."

The coach announced that he would take 21 players to Winnipeg. The party will leave Thursday and will carry the following lineup: McKinnon, Flying wing; J. Gilkes, Bibbing and Rowe, half backs; Hughes, quarter; McKee, snapback; Zwank and Hoplowik, guards; Cosgrove and Lawrence, tackles; Hal Harrison and Haynes, ends. Subs: Adams, Weaver, Wusyk, Warren, Border, C. Harrison, Snowden, Bob Harrison, G. Gilkes.

In the meantime, rugby boosters canvassed the city in their efforts to boost the advance ticket sale to the necessary $4,000 required to finance the Calgary game.

At the end of the day, with ticket sales and further donations from enthusiastic football fans swelling the total, they reported that they had $810 in the fund. Donations received Wednesday amounted to $60 with the remainder of the addition to Tuesday's $500 total accruing from ticket sales.

The boosters will continue their drive for funds Thursday and Friday as it is hoped to be able to advise Winnipeg on Friday night that the game will be played here.

BOOKIES TAKE LAST LICKING FROM IRONMEN

Men with Slates Out on New York's Big Tracks Now

By MAX HILL

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The mirth was gone Wednesday from the faces of the men who all summer long sat on their stools at the race tracks and smiled as the dimes flipped six-to-five on a legitimate two-to-one shot.

The iron men as the parimutuel machines are known around the horse parks—has been voted in to replace the bookies.

Once the horse parks from Tijuana in Old Mexico to Saratoga in New York catered to the men with slates. Then only New York was left. Tom Shaw, fat-and gul-faced, the big Irishman, Tim Mara, Pete Blong and the other carried on, but they knew that in the end the "iron men," would get them.

Mara saw that the business was up the stretch with the winner in the hands of the voters a month or so ago and he hung up his slate and concentrated instead on making his New York Giants, the pro football team, a money maker.

And so today there were tears in the beer and the men who made the prices, albeit they always claimed to lose money year after year.

"They bet us right off the boards," signed one, wryly.

"The red board is up."

And the bookies, like poker chips, now have no home.

Tire Blow-Out Causes Tie-Up in Chicago Bike Test

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A tire blowout spilled three riders in the 42nd international six-day bike race at the stadium last night as four teams were deadlocked in a mileage tie for first place.

A tire on the bike of Henry O'Brien of San Francisco gave way, throwing him and Charles Bergna, Paterson, N.J., and George Shipman, of Brooklyn, to the boards. None of the three was seriously hurt, although the race was held up 10 minutes.

Eire Boosts Taxes To Prove Country Is Ready To Fight

DUBLIN, Nov. 9.—Eire boosted her income tax a shilling in the pound yesterday, bringing the rate to six shillings and sixpence effective next year.

Other changes announced in an emergency budget by Deputy Prime Minister Sean O'Kelly were:

Increased duty on big estates, sugar duty raised three farthings a pound; tobacco duty raised two shillings eight pence a pound; beer duty raised fourpence a gallon, spirits, tenpence a gallon.

Although a neutral country so far as the war is concerned, declared Mr. O'Kelly, Eire has made preparations which will convince a potential aggressor the military and political cost of overcoming the country's resistance would be greater than it would be wise to incur.

"Bootleg" Cream Reported Being Sold In Calgary

Offenders caught in the act will be reported to the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners for such action the commissioners consider necessary.

Dr. W. H. Hill, city health officer, said it had been brought to his attention "that a good deal of 'bootlegged' cream was being brought into the city and sold."

Eastern Miners Asked Intervene In Estevan Strike

GLACE BAY, N.S., Nov. 9—Coal miners of the Estevan, Sask., field last night telegraphed district 26 headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America here, seeking support in their attempt to have 150 Royal Canadian Mounted Police removed from the western strike area.

A telegram charged the R.C.M.P. were trying to break the strike for union recognition.

Southern Alberta Teachers Convene

Canadian Nickel

A VITAL FACTOR IN CANADIAN MINING PRODUCTION

Today the stream of metals from the mines of the Empire must be kept flowing. Gold, Copper, Nickel, Lead, Zinc, Tin, are needed in increasing quantities. The mines of Canada and other Empire countries are stripped for action.

In maintaining and increasing this supply of metals, Canadian Nickel plays a vital part. In drills, mine cars and locomotives, in crushing, grinding and smelting equipment, alloys of Canadian Nickel give strength, toughness and resistance to abrasion. They reduce breakages, give longer life to equipment, and eliminate wasteful shut-downs.

In the new machinery and equipment needed to speed and expand mining production, Nickel Alloys will be used in ever-increasing quantities. Thus the Nickel Industry plays its vital part in speeding Empire production.

OTTAWA STUDIES CITY'S PLAN ON PILOT TRAINING

Careful consideration is being given by the federal government to representations by Edmonton's civic authorities regarding this city's adaptability as an airforce training centre and facilities for the manufacture and assembling of aircraft, according to Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., commandant of the Edmonton Garrison, who returned Wednesday from Ottawa, where he and City Engineer A. W. Haddow interviewed federal military authorities.

Mr. Haddow is stopping over in Ottawa to give any further details of Edmonton's preparedness to cooperate to the limit in the Canadian war effort.

Col. Brown reported the annual meeting of the Canadian Infantry Association held early this week at Ottawa, was highly successful. He attended the meeting.

Members of the Edmonton Life Insurance Girls' Club have volunteered to collect approximately $900 in aid of the Canadian Red Cross drive for funds, stated W. J. Dick Thursday morning. There are about 150 girls in the club.

not heeded the voice of God in the past."

He pointed out that in the past there has been over-emphasis on the scientific side of education and the spiritual side has suffered, a condition that has brought the world to its present crisis.

BIRD LECTURES

A. Stuart Bird, supervisor of physical education for the Edmonton public school system, gave a lecture on analysis of rhythmical exercises and agility exercises. He emphasized the best ways to improve carriage.

Demonstration of the use of sound films for instruction was given by H. P. Brown of the University of Alberta extension department.

CITY PHYSICIAN, WM. N. CONDELL, DIES THURSDAY

Prominent physician and a pioneer resident of the city, Dr. William Newton Condell, of 11826 100 avenue, died here early Thursday at the age of 72 years. He had been a resident of the city since 1906.

Native of Ventlor, Ont., Dr. Condell worked as a carpenter until he was 27. Always keenly interested in medicine, he entered Queen's University, from which he graduated in medicine in 1899. He practiced in Centerville, Ont., for a number of years and then went to Edinburgh, Scot., and London, Eng., for post-graduate work, specializing in ear, eye and nose treatment.

After practicing for a few months in Ontario, Dr. Condell came to Edmonton in 1906, and since then has resided in the city. He shall gained him a wide practice, which he maintained until his partial retirement a few years ago. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife and one brother, Dr. Angus Condell, of Brandon, Man. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday from Andrews' chapel, with Rev. Ross K. Cameron officiating. Interment will take place in the family plot of the Edmonton cemetery.

VOTE HANDLED WITH DISPATCH ELECTION DAY

Handling the mountainous job of compiling the vote results after a civic election is no small job, but the smoothness, dispatch and efficiency with which the whole job is carried out is a credit to the staff of Returning Officer Alfred Russell.

Preparation of ballots, counting of ballots, boxes and polling booth equipment was carried out without hitch for the election on Wednesday by Mr. Russell and his immediate staff of J. D. Foster, James Rogerson and Harry Denton.

Tabulation, compilation and totalling of votes was dispatched quickly and ably after the election by Arthur Spiller, Harry Robinson, Robert Willoughby, Jack Bond, H. Montgomery and George Docherty.

Besides his central staff, the returning officer employed an outside staff of some 300 district returning officers, assistant D.R.O.'s, and poll clerks. His total pay roll was approximately $3,000 for the election.

Civil Servants Hold Memorial Rites Friday

Annual memorial service of the Alberta Civil Service will be held at the main rotunda of the legislative buildings at 4.45 p.m. Friday, it was announced Thursday by F. J. Patrick, president of Edmonton Branch No. 2, of the Civil Service Association.

Premier William Aberhart and members of the provincial cabinet have been invited to attend.

Wreaths will be placed on the tablets in the rotunda bearing the names of all civil servants enlisting in the Great War and names of the names of those killed in action.

Miss Roxyna Phillips will sing Kipling's "Recessional" and the service will conclude with God Save the King.

Yukon Plane's Huge Pontoons Going to Byrd

Floats for the Barkley-Grow airliner which Admiral Richard E. Byrd will use on his flights over Antarctica this winter have been shipped to Newton Creek by special express car and are expected to arrive in Edmonton over Northern Alberta Railway Lines Friday or Saturday morning for reshipment to New York.

The floats belong to the Barkley-Grow airliner operated by Yukon Southern Air Transport on the Fort St. John-Whitehorse leg of their service to the Yukon. They are being loaned to Byrd because he did not have time to have a set made for his plane, and Yukon Southern's are the only set of Barkley floats in existence. The planes are usually operated as wheel machines, but due to the nature of the country, Yukon Southern had their machine especially adapted for use with floats.

ALBERTA MOTOR ASSOCIATION
ROAD REPORTS

Safety slogan: Be certain the road ahead is clear before passing another vehicle. Never pass on a hill.

Thursday road report: Sun shining everywhere. All main highways fair to good. Dirt roads frozen and rough but passable. Peace River roads are heavy in places. Scows are operating at Smith and the ferry is still in use on the Big Smoky river. Dunvegan ferry still operating.

He's Never Sought Seat But "Paddy" Has Helped Councillors To Office

He has never sought a civic office himself, yet W. "Paddy" Griffin's campaign oratory in the 1938 and 1939 civic election campaigns has contributed largely to the election of two aldermen.

Last year the Citizens' Committee nominated Ald. Sidney Parsons as representative of the trade unions, but Mr. Parsons was not able to contest his election. He was in Peace River, engaged on a construction job and not able to take part in the campaign.

So Paddy, well known war veteran and member of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., was called in. He stumped for Mr. Parsons, who published in a breeze in the election race without once appearing on a platform.

This year Lt.-Col. E. Brown, commandant of the Edmonton garrison, was nominated by the Citizens' Committee for election to council, but just before the campaign he was called to Ottawa on military business.

Once again Paddy took the stump and, singing the praises of Ald. Brown in his thick Irish brogue, he brought the colonel home in handy fashion. Col. Brown finished second from the top of the poll.

Paddy likely will be more in demand than ever as a campaigner in future elections.

"Just leave it to Paddy," is becoming a byword in the campaigns.

MECHANIZATION IS VICTORY KEY GRIESBACH SAYS

War in the modern world has become so vast an enterprise that the success of any army depends not simply upon the efficiency of its soldiers but upon the mechanization and industrial power of the country, Major-General W. A. Griesbach, K.C., told a joint luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club and the Rotary Club Thursday at the Macdonald.

General Griesbach said failure to match mechanization power with equal power would result in "a massacre," as was the case in Poland when the German armies rolled into the small country.

Tracing the long history of war, and the various theories which have guided military action, General Griesbach pointed out that the conduct of war has been changed repeatedly in the light of new conditions.

General Griesbach pointed out that a totalitarian war does not mean a war necessarily waged by totalitarian states—though Germany and Italy believe in it—but a war in which ruthless action may be taken against civilians as well as military forces.

J. M. Varey Gets Saskatoon Post Soldiers' Board

Superintendent of the Edmonton office of the Soldiers' Settlement Board of Canada since 1931 and well known in business and professional circles in the city, J. M. Varey has been promoted to take charge of the Saskatoon office of the board, largest unit in Canada. He leaves for his Saskatoon post today.

Members of the staff of the Edmonton office made a presentation of a set of golf clubs to Mr. Varey prior to his leaving. Lt. Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M. made the presentation on behalf of the staff and while congratulating Mr. Varey on his well deserved promotion expressed the regret of the staff at his severing his connection with them.

The Saskatoon office of the S.S.B. is the largest in Canada as most of the farms taken up by returned men under the S.S.B. were in that province.

He is survived by one brother, M. J. Munro, of Edmonton, and by one daughter, Mrs. Hope. Interment took place in the family plot at the Edmonton cemetery.

Vicomte Roger de Roumefort, of Montreal, general manager of Credit Foncier, F.C., was a business visitor in Edmonton Thursday, a guest at the Macdonald.

W. J. O'Callaghan of 11405 102 avenue, who is connected with the Royal Bank here, is leaving for the east tonight to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. E. O'Callaghan of Cornwall, Ont., who died Thursday morning.

General sessions of the Social Credit members of parliament caucus that met here Tuesday, have been completed and an adjournment has been taken until next Tuesday. In the meantime a committee has been struck to carry on with discussions and to frame an agenda to be presented to members when they return.

Canadian Airways plane piloted by Russ Baker, which combed northern British Columbia in search of two motorcyclists reported missing in an attempted journey from Alaska to Seattle, returned to its base at Fort St. James Wednesday. The motorcyclists were reported safe at Hazelton before the fliers returned.

Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, will open the program for the Fur Farm Short Course to be held at the provincial government experimental fur farm, Oliver, at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. This field day is being held under auspices of the provincial agriculture department and the Alberta Fur Breeders Association and is for educational purposes only.

Edmonton city police will be represented in the Remembrance Day parade Saturday morning. About 25 members of the force will parade, led by Chief A. G. Shute, Staff Inspector Matt Blackwood and Sgt.-Major Alex. Riddell. Sgt. Reg. Jennings will lay a wreath on the cenotaph. About 65 members of the city police force served overseas during the last Great War.

Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the first division of Canada's protected overseas force, will not address a meeting here Friday under the auspices of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Chamber officials said Thursday. They had invited him to speak, but the commander said he was coming to the city to devote all his time to military matters and the inspection of three units in the Edmonton Garrison included in his division.

The next regular meeting of the Edmonton Council of the Knights of Columbus will be held in the council chamber Thursday, November 9, at 8:30 p.m., when Brother K. J. Collings will be presented with his honorary degree. Other business to be discussed at the meeting will be plans for the annual Christmas tree and arrangements for a billiard tournament to be held in the club rooms.

There are 791.3 persons to the square mile in England.

RUSTLERS MAY BE BUSY HERE IN COW THEFT

Police are wondering if a gang of streamlined rustlers, working with modern trucks, are operating in the Edmonton district. Mrs. L. Fiske, 12803 133 street, reported that her cow—its horns are broken and its tail clipped short —wandered away last Friday evening. Monday evening she saw a truck driving past her place and she is sure she saw her cow in it, she told police.

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

By Jerry Brondfield

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOAN JOHNSON, a mysterious co-ed, glamor girl of the Tech campus.

KEITH RHODES, Tech's star fullback, headed for All-American honors.

DAN WEBBER, the blocking back who clears Keith's way; a steady, industrious student.

Yesterday: Joan and Dan are kidnapped, driven to a country hideout. Joan is ordered to write her father, giving instructions for payment of $50,000 ransom. "And tell him," the gangster snarls, "that if that dough ain't picked up by Saturday, they'll find you floating in the river." Joan knows he means what he says.

CHAPTER XXIII

JOAN'S feeling of terror gradually left her as she thought of her father. He'd know how to handle this. Nothing had ever stopped him.

"That's an awful lot of money," she said.

"He—he doesn't have that much," she added almost desperately.

Big Ed smiled crookedly. "What're you tryin' to hand us, sister? The old guy can raise four times that much in an hour and you know it. He knows who he's dealin' with."

Dan looked at her curiously. What did he mean by that?

Ed grinned with satisfaction. "We got quite a reputation. Guys who know us never doubt our integrity, as they say in the papers, hey Rocco?"

Big Ed spread his hands. "Now that everybody understands everybody else, we're gonna get along, hey?"

And then, more curtly: "Rocco, you go back into town. Keep low but keep your eyes and ears open. I got a hunch her old man will come bustin' in." He turned to Joan. "It ain't gonna do him a damn bit of good, though.

"Sam, see what that other kid has in his pockets that he shouldn't. Incidentally, what's your name, kid?" he asked Dan after Rocco had left.

Dan told him. Sam tossed his wallet to Ed who looked through it hastily and tossed it back.

"Here . . . you can keep it."

"Thanks," Dan said sarcastically.

Ed looked at him bleakly. "Don't be a fresh punk, now. You ain't supposed to be in this party, you know." His face grew hard. "Meebe we shoulda dumped you out somewhere, at that. You'll only be in the way.

"As long as you kids behave yourselves we'll let you be a little bit free. One bad move and we'll keep you tied up like a bundle of groceries."

"Mind if we look around a bit?" Joan asked.

He grinned. "Sure, go ahead. But don't go far."

It was a plain, one-storey house with an unfinished garret. Apparently no one had lived there for more than a year. The furnishings were poor with just bare necessities in evidence.

"Yours is the blue room," Big Ed called to Joan. "Right over there."

She opened the door across from the small bathroom and grimaced at the sight of the rickety bed and straight, hard chair. The single window was boarded up securely on the outside.

"Hardly the Ritz-Carlton," she murmured.

There was a scene of wild commotion at the Alpha Nu house when Joan failed to show up for dinner. Keith's car had been found deserted on the stadium road. No one could explain it.

Bill Slocum had raged when Dan failed to report for practice, but things took on a serious aspect when both Dan and Joan were still missing at 8 o'clock.

It took J. G. Johnson, escorted by a police inspector, to turn some light on the problem.

J. G. burst upon the Alpha Nu house with the full fury of a northern gale. It had taken him just two and a half hours to get from New York in a chartered plane.

He was still too breathless to speak comprehensively, and it was the inspector who took over and explained what had happened.

Signs and tracks indicate someone was with Miss Johnson when she was picked up. The shoe prints tally with those of Dan Webber. Now, we want you girls to co-operate with us as fully as possible . . . think clearly now . . ."

* * *

It was a hushed, scared group which huddled in the Alpha Nu living room later that night. The Tribune had come out with an extra and Tommy Peters, staring at the sheet in front of him, shook his head.

"Boy, am I the prize dummy. Joan Johnson . . . millionaire heiress . . . daughter of J. G. Johnson, big eastern industrialist . . ." he muttered, reading snatches of the story.

"I wasn't just dumb," he repeated, "I was plain thick. All the time I thought she might be related to old J. G. or his family. He got his start down Arkansas way and then transferred his operations out east."

He slapped the paper. "She told me she had no relatives in Arkansas, but that happened to be the truth . . . and that's what stumped me. I never dreamed she was the daughter of THE J. G. Johnson."

Tommy turned to Carol wildly. "Oil . . . steel . . . railroads . . . banks. I'm tellin' you her old man is one of these behind-the-scenes guys who owns half the country."

Kay whistled softly. "And that's who Joan Johnson is. Gee, it's one thing to be well-to-do and it's another to be—" She paused.

"To be heiress to 20 million dollars or so," Marianne added.

Barney Hughes stopped in and asked if there was any news. "Keith been over?" he wanted to know.

Someone replied that he had phoned a short while ago, but had not stopped in.

"Doesn't surprise me," said Carol.

"What do you mean?" Elaine asked quickly.

"Oh, I don't know exactly. Except that—well, I think Joan had been doing a lot of thinking lately."

"You mean . . ."

"I mean she was just about ready to pack him in."

"Then why did she use his car on that field trip?"

Carol shrugged. "She asked him for it before she made up her mind about it, I'm sure. And she probably wanted to end it gradually.

"She had Keith's feelings to consider, too, you know. A lot of us realized it too late, maybe, but she was aces. I hope it isn't too late," she added, as an ugly afterthought hit her.

Bonnie Harris summed it up perfectly. "It was something we all suspected but wouldn't admit."

Suddenly Tommy jumped up with a whoop. "I've got it—I've got it!" he yelled. "That guy I saw in the Varsity the other night . . . Rocco Petrone, that's who it is! Rocco Petrone!

"Now I remember why his picture was in that St. Louis paper a couple of years ago. He was being held on kidnapping charges of some sort. Maybe—maybe . . . say, I think I've got a clew!"

They gaped at him in wonder as he dashed from the room.

CHINESE GIVE TO RED CROSS FOR WAR WORK

OTTAWA, Nov. 9—Chinese residents in Canada have done their bit to assist the Canadian Red Cross Society's war chest, it was announced by Red Cross officials last night.

A Chinese walked into the Ottawa branch of the society and calmly counted out $400 in bills. He said he was an Ottawa laundry operator and head of the local subscription group.

The Chinese said every Chinese Society in Canada has been instructed to open subscription lists for the Red Cross "because of what the society had done in China during the Japanese war."

The Canadian Red Cross, in co-operation with churches in Canada, contributed $68,250 during the last year for medical and surgical supplies in China's devastated areas.

Britain Has More Troops Ready For Service At Front

LONDON, Nov. 9.—"Thirty-two divisions are not the limit of our land effort and we are looking forward to the arrival of Dominion contingents," War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha said last night in comment on British army preparations.

Speaking at a private meeting of the Conservative parliamentary committee and the army committee of the House of Commons, the war secretary said that in addition to the considerable troop contingents sent to France, Great Britain has an enormous reserve of manpower complemented by the forces in the Near East and India.

He added that Indian, colonial and native troops had reinforced the garrisons overseas.
